Catarrh to Consumption.

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than torture themselves with doubtful palliatives.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and combated with all our might. In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing and of tasting so affected as to be useless, the uvula so elongated, the throat so inflamed and irritated as to produce a constant and distressing cough.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never failing.

Each packet contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and an Improved Inhaler, with treatise, price $1.

WILL YOU LISTEN TO SOUND ADVICE?

Owing to the inclination of many people to be humbugged in the purchase of articles of necessity in the household, we feel it our duty to sound a note of warning to those who seek remedies for the relief of the aches and pains incident to this season of the year. The great and growing popularity of BENSON'S PLASTER has tempted unscrupulous manufacturers to offer many worthless substitutions and imitations of that valuable remedy, hence we would advise those who wish to secure prompt relief from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Pleurisy, Chest Pains, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Backache, to carefully avoid worthless plasters by always asking for BENSON'S and let no persuasion by the dealer induce you to accept any other plaster.

THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

Representative Hermann is Confident of Re-Election.

GENERAL SHERIDAN NOT SO WELL

Forfeiture of Land Grants Discussed in Committee—Appropriation to be Made for Public Surveys in Oregon

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Great interest is manifested here by politicians of both parties as to the result of the Oregon election to-morrow. THE OREGONIAN'S representative called on Hon. Binger Hermann to-day and asked him what were his prospects for re-election and the probable result of the state going republican.

He said: "I am interrogated every day as to the tidings I am receiving from my state. I have the fullest confidence that the result will be favorable. I have always exerted my best endeavors for the interests of Oregon, and I predict that before the close of the present session of congress we will succeed in accomplishing great results in the way of large appropriations and in securing the passage of more special measures for the benefit of Oregon than in any session before. I have always endeavored to do my best for my constituents, one and all, without distinction as to person or party. My re-election will strengthen my efforts here in the increased consideration coming from this further evidence on the part of my people that I am representing them satisfactorily."

Mr. Hermann received to-day the best wishes of many of his colleagues at the capitol.

GENERAL SHERIDAN.

He Improves During The Day But Sinks Again at Night.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Gen. Sheridan passed a very comfortable night, little disturbed by coughing, and during the day to-day has retained his advanced position. This is the longest interval without a recurrence of heart trouble since he was taken sick.

STATEMENT OF A SPECIALIST.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Prof. William Pepper, who was in consultation Friday with Gen. Sheridan's physicians, said to an associated press reporter this afternoon that since his return to this city he has been in constant telegraphic communication with the physicians.

"The recent progress of the case," he said, "although still marked by very alarming symptoms, has not been such as to call for any decided change of treatment. It is true the urine contains albumen. It is impossible for such a disturbance of the circulation and engorgement of blood to occur as have marked this case without the kidneys suffering. Every effort is being made to decrease the congestion of the kidneys and to promote their activity. It is needless to add that if the case were to become further aggravated by any serious kidney complications it would greatly add to the immediate and prospective danger."

SYMPTOMS LESS FAVORABLE.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—After a day during which he showed quite an improvement in health, Gen. Sheridan's condition this evening was not so favorable and grave apprehensions are felt lest he should have another alarming attack of heart and lung trouble. There has as yet been no recurrence of heart trouble, but there have been changes in his pulse, respiration and temperature since 8 P. M. such as have been on one or two occasions at least premonitory symptoms of dangerous attacks. Prompt measures were taken to prevent the recurrence of the trouble and it is hoped that they may be warded off or that the change in his condition may prove not to be an indication of another attack. This tendency of the trouble to recur is discouraging to the physicians and a constant source of alarm to the family, and shows that although a considerable period may elapse between attacks, yet their return is always to be dreaded. The general is very weak and no stronger, if quite so strong, as before the last attack. Each attack heretofore has been worse than the preceding one, and it is feared that the general may finally become so weak as to be forced to succumb.

THE MIDNIGHT BULLETIN.

Midnight—General Sheridan's pulse and respiration are about as they were before the last bulletin. His condition is better. He is now sleeping quietly. The case is further complicated by chronic disease of the liver. That organ has become reduced in size and harder and more dense than at its normal condition. The effect of this has been to seriously repair the usefulness of that organ. Nothing can be done, it is said, to cure this state of affairs, though progress of the disease can be arrested and relief given by a low course of diet and rigid discipline. It is not believed the general has kidney disease. The kidneys have, however, along with other parts of the body become congested through inefficient circulation of the blood.

The president takes a great deal of interest in the general's case and a copy of nearly every bulletin is sent to him.

DR. PEPPER SUMMONED.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Dr. Pepper left for Washington at 12 to-night on a special train.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—2 A. M.—Gen. Sheridan does not seem to rest well and has had a couple attacks of coughing since the last bulletin. Dr. Pepper has been summoned.

PUBLIC SURVEYS IN OREGON.

The Appropriation Asked for by Hermann Will be Inserted in the Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The committee on appropriations has agreed to insert the appropriation bill proviso asked for by Representative Hermann and recommended by the interior department for an extension of the public surveys in Oregon and for increased compensation. They will provide for a survey of all lands heavily timbered or mountains covered with dense undergrowth, at rates not exceeding $13 per linear mile for standard and meander lines, $11 for township and for section lines, and in cases of exceptional difficulty or where a survey can not be contracted for, at these rates the commissioner of the general land office is authorized, in his discretion and under direction of the secretary of the interior, to allow compensation for surveys and re-surveys by the day instead of by the mile at such fair and reasonable rates as in his judgment may be necessary to insure the accurate and faithful execution of the work.

THE MOROCCO DISPUTE.

The Position of this Country Sustained on Every Point.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The secretary of state to-day received a report from United States Consul Lewis at Tangier giving a detailed account of the settlement on the 15th ult. of the disagreement between this country and Morocco. It shows that the position of this country was sustained on every point of contention, and that the bashaw had apologized for his action in the matter. The question of private claims the consul says was separated from the international question in dispute and will be considered at a future day.

LAND GRANTS.

The Dalles Military Wagon Road Matter Discussed in Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The house committee on public lands considered yesterday the bill forfeiting The Dalles military wagon road grant, which with other grants are included in the bill introduced by Representative Hermann and to which the president also submitted to congress a special bill prepared by the secretary of the interior. James K. Kelly of Portland addressed the committee in opposition to forfeiture. He was followed by J. P. McNamee, who with Gen. Wharton was commissioned last summer by the president to take testimony concerning these grants.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

Crop Reports From All Sections.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The weekly weather and crop bulletin says in part: The weather during the week has been generally favorable for all crops in the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri valleys, where the crop conditions have doubtless improved all through. In the extreme Northern states the temperature has been too low for rapid growth. Portions of Michigan report too much rain for corn, and some damage from hail is reported from Kansas. The season is well advanced in Tennessee and South Carolina, where harvesting should be in progress, the weather conditions having particularly favored crops in the former state but not so much in the latter. In the states of the Atlantic coast excessive rains and almost total cloudiness have not been favorable for rapid growth and have delayed planting in some localities.

Better Mail Service for Coos County.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Representative Hermann yesterday filed with the postmaster-general an acceptance of contract for a mail service on the route between Port Orford and Bandon, Coos county, Oregon, and an order was issued for a daily mail service between these two points.

Mail Service to Starve Out.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The postmaster general has extended the mail service from Galesville in Douglas county, Oregon, to the gold mining region of Starve Out.

PSYCHICS AND RELIGION.

Mrs. Elizabeth Low Watson Tells What She Knows of the Truths of Nature.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Mrs. Elizabeth Low Watson, who is known in San Francisco as "The Little Minister," lectured before a large audience at McVicker's theater this evening on "Psychics and Religion." She did not wish to be understood as claiming supernatural power. All she knew of her powers of speech was that she was dependent upon influences that always accompany her to the rostrum. Her sermon was based upon the infallible truths of nature. "When men search for the truth they always go to nature," she declared. When they seek to benefit their physical beings, they always go to her storehouses to study. Men have learned through ages of grievous suffering and misery that to run contrary to nature's laws is to bring upon themselves disaster. Glimpses of divinity gained by men are but apprehension of the truths of nature."

THE "WHITE CAPS."

They Issue a Manifesto in Defense of Their Lawlessness.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—An Evansville, Indiana, special to the Commercial Gazette says: The "White Caps" of Spencer county have made a new movement. They have written and posted in several places a lengthy proclamation defending their lawlessness on the ground of the laxity of the officers in punishing crime, and say that attention is specially directed against wife-beaters, loafers, lewd women and men who visit their houses, and boys under 16 who run about at nights. The remarkable part of the manifesto is a command that the newspapers in the county shall publish their proclamation under penalty of chastisement of the editors for disobedience. One of the papers has complied and there is much interest as to the result in the cases of the others.

CONDEMNING THE MILLS BILL.

The Representatives of Sixty Thousand Workmen Pronounce Against It.

PITTSBURG, June 2.—At a meeting of the Trades Assembly of west Pennsylvania, representing sixty thousand organized workmen, to-night, resolutions were unanimously adopted condemning the Mills bill and all its advocates, and condemning Congressman Scott of Erie as an enemy of labor and as a dangerous person to the welfare of society and the industrial progress of America.

Treading on Uncertain Ground.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 3.—The Evening Dispatch makes public a letter from Traffic Manager Hanley of the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City railroad to the interstate commerce commission, reciting numerous tariffs the road has been forced to promulgate between Chicago and the twin cities, to meet the rates of competing lines, and announces that the company has determined to take the responsibility of meeting the Chicago, Burlington & Northwestern last cut between the above terminal points without readjusting rates at intermediate points, and if complaint is made will attempt to justify it under the law.

Requested to Resign.

CHICAGO, June 2.—W. J. Onahan, who has faithfully served as city collector for the past eleven years, was peremptorily discharged this afternoon. Technically he was permitted to resign at the request of Mayor Roche. Mr. Onahan says his relations with the mayor have been of a pleasant character, and his forced resignation was a surprise. Onahan is a high license democrat, and it is believed that his recent recommendations to banish saloons from the neighborhood of schools has placed the mayor in a delicate position between the different factions of the republican party.

Blaine Rapidly Growing Old.

NEW YORK, June 3.—General Lawton, minister to Austria, arrived on the steamer La Gascogne to-day. In an interview Lawton said one month since he dined with Blaine. He thought from the tenor of Blaine's remarks at that time he would accept the nomination as president if selected by the convention. He said Blaine was rapidly growing old, all the reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Killed His Wife and Himself.

LUCAS, Ohio, June 3.—In a log cabin on a farm four miles from here the dead bodies of James Phillips and his wife were found yesterday. It appeared from a note left by Phillips and from the testimony of their little children that Phillips had cut his wife's throat with a pocketknife and then had used the same upon his own throat.

Jay Gould is not Sick.

DENVER, June 3.—Jay Gould and a party of Missouri Pacific officials arrived in Pueblo at noon to-day. Mr. Gould most emphatically denies the recent report regarding his illness and says that while in Kansas City he had a slight attack of neuralgia. With this exception he has had perfect health.

Clearing House Exchanges.

BOSTON, June 3.—The total gross exchanges at the leading clearing houses in the United States for the week ending June 2 were $872,143,086, a decrease of 10.2 per cent as compared with the corresponding week last year.

Accidental Drowning.

VINCENNES, Ind., June 3.—Prof. Anderson, principal of the Spencer high school, and Misses Lillie and Clara Harniday were drowned in White river last evening, by the accidental upsetting of their boat while rowing.

Murderer Arrested.

DENVER, June 3.—A. C. Birnhall, alias Mr. Anderson, was arrested to-day at Littleton for the murder of John Lane, a brother of the famous Jim Lane of Kansas, at Eureka Springs, Arkansas, two years ago.

Its thousands of cures are the best advertisement for Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

PACIFIC COAST EVENTS.

A Cave-in in a Montana Mine Imprisons Four Men.

A GIRL'S MYSTERIOUS DEATH

San Francisco Grain Bag Ring—Sacramento Exposition Opened—Train Wrecker Arrested—Off for the Melbourne Exposition

BUTTE, M. T., June 30.—A cave-in occurred at the St. Lawrence mine at noon to-day. The bell had rung to cease work, but four men tarrying in quitting were caught in it. The cave-in was from the 100 to the 500 foot level and had been coming for over a week. About fifty men were at work in that part of the mine, all of whom except Oneill, Murphy, Harrington and Gooley were saved. These men are in cross cuts on the 200 foot level of the St. Lawrence or the 400 foot level of the Anaconda. Three are known to be alive. It is doubtful about the fourth man. A force is now at work trying to rescue them. It is expected Oneill, Harrington and Gooley will be out at 5 o'clock this morning. Mike Carroll, foreman of the mine, was at the Anaconda and reached the city just as the accident occurred. A large number of timbermen had been engaged in timbering at the time of the cave in, putting in 14x14 foot sets, the longest ever used. The policy of the Anaconda Company, to which the St. Lawrence belongs, has been to observe great secrecy in its operations and to enforce reticence on the part of the workmen, consequently the facts in the case are difficult to obtain and very meager. The concussion was so great from the cave in as to extinguish the electric lights in the Anaconda mine, which adjoins the St. Lawrence and is connected with it by a drift. It is expected the cave in will extend to the surface of the St. Lawrence, as the ground was settling back of the engine house. The accident will occasion no suspension of operations in the Anaconda or other mines of the company, or their smelting operations. The mine is owned by the Anaconda company, of which J. B. Haggin, George Hearst and Lloyd Tevis are the principal owners and Marcus Daly general manager. The mines are the largest producers of copper in the Northwest, turning out about 1000 tons of matte a day.

FOUND DROWNED.

The Body of a Young Girl Discovered Floating in the Columbia.

ARLINGTON, June 3.—The body of a young woman was discovered floating in the Columbia by a fisherman named Capt. Babbe yesterday morning near the Willows, and word was immediately sent to this city to the coroner.

Dr. Bacon, the county coroner, and a number of citizens went up to the Willows and an inquest was held, but no verdict arrived at, as part of the jury believed the woman came to her death by violence and others by drowning. The body was then brought to this city to await developments.

There are several theories about the case, one being that the deceased belonged in Goldendale, W. T. She had a ring upon one finger marked "F. H. H. to R. S." or L.

A letter was received by the ticket agent here which inquired about a girl of a like description to the body found. The girl inquired after in the letter was called Rosa May Wedgewood, and the person making the inquiry signed himself Ralph W. Schoonover.

A girl answering the description came here May 29th and just put up at the hotel. The day before the body was found she went away with a man named Al Wallace, who told some of his friends that the girl was in trouble and he was going to take her home. Wallace has not been seen since. A doctor who examined the body said there were no marks of violence, but one of the jurors, Fred Varney, insisted that there was the mark of a blow upon the forehead which would have caused death, and refused to assent to a verdict of accidental drowning.

THE GRAIN BAG RING.

Opinions of Prominent Business Men on the Recent Advance in the Price.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—"As regards the advance in the price of grain bags," said a prominent commission merchant to-day, "I think it purely speculation. The crop will be short and there is a full stock of bags on hand and to arrive. The Falls of Clyde had just arrived with 2,000,000 bags and the Oriehomene is now about due with five million. The China steamers bring considerable supplies. Then East Oakland and San Quentin jute factories are turning out large quantities of bags. There is no scarcity of bags and no reason why prices should advance." One of the directors of the San Quentin prison, who has taken a great interest in jute manufacture, was asked what caused the late advance. He replied: "I am told that the leading importers agreed to withdraw a percentage of their bags. I don't know what percentage it is, but I believe there were 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 bags withdrawn, within the past few weeks, in consequence of this agreement, hence the rise in prices. We make a rule not to sell for future delivery. If we did, we could get a contract from the importers' ring which would keep us going all the time, but that would put convict-made bags under their control. Our selling price from stocks on hand is under 8 cents. We recently sold at 6¾ cents." It is stated by certain business men who profess to know that the big ring has already contracted for the next year's supply at Calcutta and that they have the option of taking the surplus and at a fixed price at the close of the season.

OFF FOR AUSTRALIA.

A Host of Friends Bid Good Bye to Commissioner Merry of Oregon.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The Oceanic's dock seemed decked in holiday attire this afternoon when the steamer Alameda sailed for Australia. The steamer carried away a large number of passengers, and an immense crowd assembled on the dock to see her off. Among those who left to represent the Pacific coast at the Melbourne exposition was T. B. Merry, and a host of friends were at the dock to see him off. They assembled in the gentlemen's state room shortly before the vessel pulled out and toasted him out of the country. Samuel Shortridge delivered a neat speech in which he wished the departing one God speed and trusted that the Pacific coast would shine brightly in the exhibition at the antipodes.

Melton Prior, the famous artist of the London Illustrated News and a renowned war correspondent, was also among the passengers. There were 172 in all in the cabin and a large number in the steerage.

The Mariposa is on her way hither from Australia with a large passenger list and will doubtless convey more away on her next trip than the Alameda carried. Commissioner McCoppin will be among the number.

IN SEARCH OF A MOTHER.

The History of Wm. Arden Evans, Who Was Born in Portland, Oregon.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Wm. Arden Evans, a young man now staying in this city, is searching for his mother, whom he has never known. He says he was born at Portland, Oregon, in 1869, and three years later his parents separated, his father, Jesse Evans, placing the child in a local orphan asylum. Afterwards Evans's father went to Prescott, Arizona, where he engaged in mining and subsequently returned to Los Angeles, where, in April, 1885, he died. Evans had been kept in ignorance of his mother, whom he supposed to be dead, but, when dying, the elder Evans told his son that she was still alive. Since then he has never ceased in his search for his mother. He has gone all over the coast in the vain attempt to obtain some trace of her. His presence here now is due to information gained in Oregon that his mother was in San Francisco two years ago. Her maiden name was Mary Cooper, but she has since her marriage been known by her husband's name.

CALIFORNIA.

Opening of an Exposition Building.

SACRAMENTO, June 2.—The exposition building erected through the efforts of the Sacramento City and County Improvement Association was opened to the public this afternoon, and the affair proved a brilliant success. The building was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting. The interior presents a handsome appearance filled with flowers, fruits, cereals and vegetables from several Northern California counties. The opening address was by Hon. Eugene Gregory. Addresses were also made by the mayor of Sacramento and by Dr. G. L. Simmons, president of the improvement association.

The doors of the exposition building were thrown open this evening and there was a great crowd present. Hereafter the counties of Northern California will keep products of the vineyard, orchard and farm constantly on exhibition.

Foully Dealt With.

SACRAMENTO, June 3.—John Lowell, who three years ago murdered Joseph Powers at Brighton, near here, was tried and acquitted. In March last Lowell disappeared and it was thought he had been foully dealt with. Saturday two men went to the Lowell ranch near Folsom and discovered Lowell's body in the cellar of an old house, that had been burned several months ago. A doctor examined the wounds and said the deceased came to his death by being struck on the head with some blunt instrument.

San Francisco Theaters.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—At the Baldwin, Fanny Davenport has drawn large audiences all the week in "La Tosca." Next week closes Miss Davenport's engagement here.

At the Bush-street next week Patti Rosa will appear in "Love and Duty."

At the Alcazar to-morrow night Gus Williams will present "The Squire of Leedsville."

At the California "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be continued during the week.

Boy Burglar.

SACRAMENTO, June 3.—Peter Bant, a boy 8 years old, was arrested at Roseville Saturday afternoon on a charge of burglary. It appears he took an iron bar and broke a seal on a freight car and stole several articles of canned goods. The constable searched the boy's home and recovered most of the stolen property. The boy's mother and sister have been arrested for receiving stolen property.

Confidence Pair Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Among the persons who arrived to-day were "Big Bertha" Stanley and her alleged son Willie, both of whom were promptly locked up at the city prison on charges of obtaining money by false pretences and for defrauding William Gruhn, among others, out of $500.

Endorsed by His Union.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—At a meeting to-day of the San Francisco Typographical Union, No. 21, E. J. Plank, president of the local union, was endorsed for the presidency of the International Typographical Union, which meets at its annual session at Kansas City on the 11th inst.

A Train Wrecker Arrested.

SAN DIEGO, June 2.—A former employe of the California Southern railroad named Long was caught in the act of misplacing a switch in the yards at National City last night and arrested. It is claimed he was trying to wreck a train in revenge for being discharged.

Notable Arrivals.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Munemitsu Mutsu, the Japanese minister plenipotentiary to the United States from that country, arrived to-day by the Oceanic, accompanied by his wife, daughter and by his suite.

Shipping Intelligence.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Arrived—Steamer Wilmington, Seattle; Arcata, Coos Bay.

Departed—Ships Kate Davenport, Port Blakeley; Dashing Wave, Tacoma.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Politics and Religion Connected.

DUBLIN, June 2.—Sir Joseph Neil McKenna (liberal), member of commons for Monaghan, has written to the secretary of the Parnell Catholic meeting in Dublin that he entirely disagrees with the resolutions adopted at that meeting and deems the argument directed at the preclusion of the pope's interposition, that politics and religion are different domains, fallacious, for the obvious reasons that questions of morality, which cannot be excluded from politics, are within the domain of religion.

Monster Meeting at Cork.

CORK, June 3.—A monster meeting was held in the city park to-day to take action here with reference to the papal rescript. The meeting indorsed the resolutions adopted by the Irish bishops in their recent meeting in Dublin. Wm. O'Brien said the leaders of the Irish movement wished to drop the rescript agitation, but would continue it if necessary.

Spurgeon's New Movement.

LONDON, June 3.—Spurgeon is about to initiate a movement looking to a federation of baptist clergymen who share his views. He writes: "My next step is not so clear, but the instinct of the gracious life is to seek an engine communion, hence the necessity of fellowship of ourselves and our churches suggests itself to those leaving the old camps."

For President Diaz.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), June 3.—A monster demonstration was held here to-day in favor of the re-election of President Diaz. Twenty thousand workingmen marched through the principal streets and called upon the president at the national palace.

The Council Will Resign.

BERLIN, June 3.—The Cologne Gazette says the council at a meeting Friday, at which Prince Bismarck presided, resolved to resign if the emperor should insist upon the publication of his letter to accompany the promulgation of the quinquennial laws.

Disastrous Fire.

PANAMA, VIA GALVESTON, June 3.—Fire broke out at Port Roma at 2 o'clock this morning and entirely gutted ten large houses. It is estimated $300,000 worth of property was destroyed.

Both Emperors Better.

BERLIN, June 3.—The emperor is better to-day. He drove out this afternoon.

MILAN, June 3.—The emperor of Brazil is improving.

Drowned With His Team.

KETCHUM, Idaho, June 3.—Robert Beardsley, proprietor of Beardsley's hot springs, three miles below Challis, Custer county, was drowned last Wednesday while fording Salmon river. His team were also drowned. The body has not yet been recovered.

A Town Taken by Cowboys.

STEWART, Col., June 2.—A gang of cowboys took possession of the town this morning, and about demolished the postoffice and its contents. About 100 shots were fired, but no one was hurt.

THE CALIFORNIANS WIN

Stephen M. White to be Chosen Temporary Chairman.

CLEAVELAND MUST BE INDORSED.

The Vice-Presidential Contest Narrowed Down to Thurman and Gray—The Latter's Friends Will Make a Vigorous Fight.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The Republican says: The contest for the honor of presiding over the democratic convention assumed large proportions yesterday. The Californians, with their usual energy, worked their White boom, and with their hearty, good natured, cheery ways made friends on all sides. One of the serious obstacles in their way up to last night was the opposition of Hearst. It seems that, as a member of the California state senate, White opposed the nomination of Hearst for United States senator in the democratic caucus. Hearst in turn opposed the putting of the gavel of the temporary presiding officer of the national convention in the hands of White. All day yesterday the mutual friends of White and Hearst labored with Hearst and at last succeeded in getting him to withdraw his opposition. This was a big point won for White, as Hearst's influence with the national convention might have been sufficient to defeat his aspirations.

A CONFERENCE HELD.

Last night there was a conference held at the Southern hotel by members of the national convention at present in this city. Among those present were: Chairman Barnum, Senator Gorman, Holt, of Texas, Fordyce, of Arkansas, Tarpey, of California, Scott, of Pennsylvania, and Meade, of Arizona. The situation was thoroughly discussed, the claims of the Pacific coast considered and the qualifications of White weighed. The conference finally agreed to recommend to the full meeting of the committee on Monday that Stephen M. White, of California, be selected for temporary chairman. It is hardly necessary to say that the Californians are duly happy.

It is almost certian that White, of California, will be selected for temporary chairman, and the committee will select a man for parmanent chairman who will be recommended to the convention by the committee on permanent organization.

A representative group of men were at the Southern, deeply engrossed in the political situation. Prominent among the members were Hon. Stephen M. White, lieutenant-governor of California; Wm. English, of Indiana, delegate at large and chairman of the democratic state convention of that state; J. W. Dorsey, a prominent Nevada mine owner; H. A. Mason, the Nevada cattle baron; and Delegate Lyons, one of Colorado's cattle kings.

MUST HAVE A SILVER PLANK.

"The democratic party must protect the silver interests of the slope," Dorsey was saying. "The republicans will certainly insert a free coinage plank in their platform, and if we don't secure a similar plank it will cost us thousands of votes on the slope this fall."

"It's mighty little chance we'll get at the platform," said Mr. Lyons. "Bill Scott has got in his work, and it is already written. Those people down East seem to think we Westerners are not capable of caring for ourselves, and don't know our wants. They think the whole country ought to go mad every time they are bitten by a yellow dog."

"You needn't worry, Jim," said English, "that silver plank will go in, or there will be a bigger racket than any democratic convention ever had on its hands before."

"We've got the pens and can borrow the ink and know how to use them," said Mason, "and before we get through with them, the easterners will find we are capable of writing a plank."

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

Wm. A. Ferry, of Park City, the Utah territorial delegate, said to a reporter: "Now I don't know but that it is thoroughly undemocratic to have a second or third choice for vice-president. However, after Thurman, when it is demonstrated that neither the grand old Roman nor Gov. Gray will be nominated, I retain the recollection of Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan. I am a Michiganer, and the only democrat of my race. The Utah democrats, and, I may say, the party generally favor statesmen and statesmanship. As to this tariff talk we wish to construe the president's message literally and not as some would force us to believe."

Delegate James L. Cowan of Albany, Oregon, said: "Governor Pennoyer of our state will receive our complimentary vote for the vice presidency and then we shall proceed to business and whoop it up for Thurman. We favor reduction of the tariff and consequent reduction of the treasury surplus. We are not for absolute free trade."

Napoleon Davis, of Salem, another Oregon delegate, said: "Governor Pennoyer of Oregon is our first choice for vice president. He is a strong man and will carry the Pacific coast, if nominated. Thurman is the only one considered after Governor Pennoyer. As to the tariff and our wool interest, every disaffected sheepman lost to the democracy is more than counterbalanced by gains from the unprotected cattlemen.

THURMAN OR GRAY.

The Contest for the Vice-Presidency Practically Narrowed Down to Those Two.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Governor Gray's friends are hard at work trying to stem the tide that has set in for Senator Thurman for vice-president. Dispatches were sent from here to-day to Thurman informing him he would be nominated by acclamation, but the Gray men profess not to be discouraged and are making a vigorous contest.

The Hendricks club from Indianapolis arrived this evening and marched through the streets and past the principal hotels, hurrahing for Gray. The executive committee from Indiana met the Pacific delegates at 11 o'clock to-day, in the headquarters of the California delegation, at the Southern hotel. Col. Matson, democratic candidate for governor of Indiana, for Gray, pointed out the necessity of carrying Indiana, claiming that without an Indiana man on the ticket the prospect would be anything but encouraging in that state; more particularly if the republicans should name Judge Gresham or Harrison for president. Speeches of a same general tenor were also made by Chas. Jewett, chairman of the state committee, Judge Holman, of Indianapolis, and others. The California delegates listened to all their visitors had to say, but so far as is known are still solid for Thurman, declaring almost with one accord that they can carry the three states of the Pacific coast if their man is put on the ticket.

The fight for vice-president has practically narrowed down to Thurman and Gray. Probably Black's name will not be before the convention, and there is a rumor that both Stevenson and Black will withdraw. There was more talk to-day of Postmaster-General Dickinson, but some of his friends from Michigan say he will not be a candidate.

Commissioner Morrison is not a candidate, and after the first ballot will probably throw his votes in Illinois, numbering perhaps 30 to Gray. Delegates Lehman and Ballingall say a majority of the Iowa delegation is for Gray, and Kentucky is also claimed for him.

Henry Watterson does not like the Thurman idea, and frankly says so. Considerable opposition to Thurman has developed in the South, and the Gray men are full of fight and hopefulness. Col. Matson and others, friends of the Indiana governor have made renewed efforts to ascertain if Thurman is the choice of the president, and have pressed Scott very hard for an answer to their queries. Scott said he had no intention of trying to force the nomination of Thurman or anyone, and had not come out here for that purpose.

The friends of President Cleveland declare that Cleveland has not said one word concerning his choice for president, and claim he has steadfastly refused to express a preference. The Gray men are talking this to every delegate they can reach.

Objections to Thurman on account of his age are heard more frequently than ever before. When the New York delegations get in the Thurman movement is expected to take a great leap forward, as both Tammany and the county democracy favor him. Ex-Mayor Grace, of New York, a leading county democracy man, says Thurman's nomination is assured. Some of the advance guard of the New York delegation, however, are opposed to the Ohioan. George Raines, Dennis O'Brien and Thomas J. S. Pratt, all delegates from the interior of New York, say it won't never do to nominate a man who stands with one foot in the grave. "Sentiment is not what wins," declared the first named. "We had all the sentiment on our side when we ran Hancock and yet we were defeated."

Senator Gorman takes the same view and the Maryland delegation is likely to go solidly to Gray, if the Thurmanites do not develop too much strength. If the county delegates from New York and those from Brooklyn refuse to go in with Tammany and the county democracy in support of Thurman, the old Roman may be beaten after all. A sufficient number of delegates have not arrived to give a satisfactory idea of the direction the drift will finally take, but Gray is undoubtedly gaining strength, while the Thurman sentiment is being much weakened by objections to his age.

The Ohio delegation is acting rather queerly about the Thurman matter. Men from that state profess to be for Thurman and yet a great number of them covertly throw water on the movement to nominate him. A few of the Ohio delegates oppose him openly, while others talk much of his age and infirmities. They say Ohio will not present him as a candidate unless he can be nominated withou a roll call, and the Indiana men insist they are going to make a fight to the finish. So much opposition to Thurman has developed to-day, and it is becoming so generally understood that the administration is not responsible for his candidacy, that the Californians are much less confident than they were. Senator Gorman declares that all practical politics is on the side of Gray, and that Gray must win.

The common theory about the administration's relations to the Thurman candidacy is this: While the president has said nothing, Scott and Secretary Whitney desire Thurman's nomination in order to patch up certain party differences in Ohio and because they sincerely believe the old Roman's name would add strength to the ticket.

THE PLATFORM.

A Strong Opposition to the Indorsement of the Mills Tariff Bill.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The platform was quite as much talked about to-day as the vice-presidency. It is understood to be practically settled that Lieut.-Gov. White, of California, will be temporary chairman, the programme then being to elect Gen. Collins, permanent chairman. For this honor Henry Watterson will probably compete.

Secretary Prince, Senator Gorman and others are said to have joined in a scheme to have the tariff platform of 1884 reaffirmed without any stronger endorsement of tariff reform, and without any mention of the president's message. This programme does not please Morrison, Scott, Watterson and the democrats of the South and Southwest, and they are likely to join forces in defeating Gorman. They have as yet selected no candidate for chairman against Gorman, but will do so to-morrow. Congressman Scott will doubtless be elected chairman of the national committee, and have personal charge of the campaign.

To an associated press reporter, Scott said to-night: "Nothing has been settled as to the platform or as to the chairman of the committee on resolutions. When questioned as to the movement for Thurman for the vice-presidency, Scott said the sentiment in favor of the Ohioan seemed to be steadily gaining ground, "but," he said, "all this may be changed later. There are not enough delegates here yet to enable one to predict anything, and all present calculations may be upset and to-day's indications changed."

Strong opposition to the endorsement of the Mills tariff bill is manifested to-day by conservative members of the national committee. These gentlemen favor the adoption of resolutions sustaining substantially the tariff plank in the platform of 1884, and so drawn to cover the policy of tariff reduction recommended in the last annual message of President Cleveland, but they express themselves strongly opposed to a specific mention of the Mills bill, or any other measure for tariff reduction. This question has been the subject of lengthy informal conferences to-day among various members, and while Mills's adherents evinced a determination to have that measure endorsed in the resolutions, the opposition is so formidable at this time as to seem insurmountable.

THURMAN INTERVIEWED.

Not Seeking the Nomination, but Wholly Willing to Accept It.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 3.—The announcement that Thurman would permit his name to be put before the convention for vice-president is being welcomed madly all over the country, judging from the number of telegrams he has received to-day. To-night a reporter again called on the ex-senator and found him in cheerful spirits. He talked freely upon the prospects of the coming convention.

Said he: "Don't understand that I am a candidate in the sense of seeking a nomination, for I am not. As I said to you last, I am willing to accept if there is anything like a unanimity of feeling at St. Louis that I would in any way add strength to the ticket."

"You were favored with a call by the Ohio delegations yesterday?"

"Yes, sir; almost all the delegates came. I told them I would leave my fate entirely with them and cheerfully abide by any result that they would effect in the convention."

"Do you know who will present your name?"

"No; but it will be an outside state, probably one of the Pacific states, and possibly California, but of course I can't tell."

"The coast states seem to be all very enthusiastic for you."

"Well, I suppose they feel kindly to me for the same reason that they like Blaine. You see we both voted to prevent Chinese immigration into this country and in fact were the only two who made pronounced speeches on the bill."

"Don't you think the St. Louis convention will be a most harmonious one?"

"Oh yes; democratic conventions always are. President Cleveland will be renominated by acclamation, but the vice-presidency will not go the same way. Certainly not unless other candidates withdraw before then."

When asked what the main platform ought to be, he replied that he would rather not say anything on that at present.

NO LIQUORS SOLD.

But the Pacific Coast Delegation Had Plenty and to Spare for all their Friends.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The coast headquarters was the Mecca of all democratic pilgrims this morning, when delegates awoke at a late hour, thirsting for waters that soothe the palate after a social evening. This city, as a hospitable haven for strangers, was threatened with the loss of its hard-earned reputation. This was the third Sunday when the saloons, hotels and restaurants had to refuse orders for liquid refreshments and the law was strictly enforced. Shortly before midnight the bibulous were warned by notices posted in the prominent bars that no liquors would be served to-day and that it would be a wise forethought to lay in a stock of wet goods. This caution was neglected, hence the despair of the visitors who sighed just for an eye-opener to brace them for a dull day. They were disappointed in the latter expectation, for this evening every delegate is worn out with the round of pleasure that had been prepared. The day's programme was initiated by the delegations flocking to a parlor that had been royally stocked with products of the Pacific coast. Californians were at home to all their friends and kept open house, dispensing exhilarating fluids with a generosity that touched the hearts of those whose lives were saved by this wise provision.

Rumor had it that Indiana, Maryland and California were to discuss the relative strength of Thurman and Gray, but events demonstrated that the old Roman was the idol of the coast and that a proposition to consider a second choice for second place was out of the question with them. The Indianans started out early this morning and went to the coast headquarters where they were received by Chairman Tarpey, Gov. White, Senator Mitchell and other early risers. After the customary greetings Col. Watson, candidate for governor, Chas. E. Jewett, chairman of the state committee were introduced. Messrs. Holman, of Indianapolis, and Charles G. Offutt delivered short addresses, urging the candidacy of Gov. Gray. They exhausted arguments to prove the expediency of his nomination. Their claims were based on the ground that without an Indiana man on the ticket the state would be lost to the democracy and the election jeopardized. There was much more of the same tenor, and the Indiana boomers retired without having produced any effect on the minds of their hearers.

The Pacific coast delegation will organize to-morrow morning. Gov. White is confident of his receiving the desired recognition in the temporary organization, and says there is no possibility of defection from the Ohio candidate for the second place.

THE OHIO DELEGATION.

It Seems a Considerable Way from Being Solid for Thurman.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The Ohio delegation came in this morning. The party of 200 or more who came with them was enthusiastically for Thurman and denied all opposition. Still there were many who looked upon the nomination of the "Old Roman" with an evil eye. They began to count noses among the delegates and declared Judge Thurman did not have the state solid by a long sight, and doubted his friends' ability to unite it. Several opponents of Senator Thurman declared there were but fourteen delegates pronounced for Thurman.

E. W. Batter, delegate at large from Cincinnati, was not enthusiastic for Thurman. He said: "Ohio is in no position to urge any nomination, with the feeling that now exists among the delegation and throughout the country. There is some bitter fighting going on both in and out of the state. However, if Judge Thurman is acceptable to the balance of the country, the Ohio delegation will probably give him support. The demand must come from outside the state. I know of six delegates from Ohio who are pledged to Gray, six to Black and some to Stevenson. I know of none for Morrison.

John J. Brady, one of the delegates from Cincinnati, represents elements rabidly opposed to Thurman, and significantly remarked to a gentleman who announced that the old Roman would be nominated by acclamation. "The nomination has not been made yet. It takes a two-thirds vote to nominate in this convention." He was sure the Ohio delegation was not solid for Thurman. He was not, and he knew others of the same views. Yet if the pressure from the outside was strong they might feel obliged to fall into line. The name of Thurman will be presented to the convention by a Californian, probably by Governor White, but he may forego that honor in consequence of his election to the temporary chairmanship. In that case Hon. M. F. Tarpey will be selected for the nominating speaker.

VOORHEES FOR GRAY.

He Considers the Indianian's Nomination Essential to Democratic Success.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, arrived this afternoon. To a reporter he said:

"Yes, I regard the nomination of Gov. Gray to the vice-presidency of the most vital importance to national success. Since the admission of Indiana into the Union in 1816, no democrat has ever been elected president without receiving the electoral vote of Indiana and the result this year will prove no exception in her history. Cleveland will be re-elected with the vote of Indiana or not at all. Four years ago Indiana cast 459,000 votes and will this year probably exceed 550,000. When it is considered that neither one of the great parties has a majority on this enormous vote, but must succeed or be defeated by a small plurality of 6000 or 7000, it must be obvious at a glance how important it is for the democratic ticket to have every atom of strength possible.

"As to Judge Thurman, no word of mine shall ever disparage his great ability or the love which is borne him by the democratic party; but with the senate equally divided and an absolute tie between the two parties from and after the 4th of next March, and with the control of that body depending upon the casting vote of the vice-president it seems not unwise nor unkind to suggest the uncertainties of life to one who has borne the heat and burden of battle until his days of labor seem drawing to a close.

Senator Tarpey said to a reporter: "There is very little doubt of Gray's nomination, from what I can learn so far. Although I have only been in the city a few hours, I am confident Gray's chances are the best by far, and his boom is growing every hour. I have thought all the time the Thurman movement was simply a curtain to mask the real intentions of Eastern delegations, and what I have learned since my arrival has confirmed that impression. I don't anticipate any trouble over the platform. The Pacific delegations are demanding a silver plank, but there won't be any trouble over it. The platform will be formed in committee, and all differences will be settled there. We may make the silver men some concessions, but there won't be any trouble over it. The convention won't lose over two or three hours after it is organized."

"A WARNING."

Cleveland's Tariff Policy Must be Endorsed Without Equivocation.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—In reference to a scheme which is being pushed by certain protectionist delegates to make no mention of the Mills bill in the platform, and to touch the president's message very lightly if at all, and to simply repeat the tariff clause of the platform of 1884, the Republican will to-morrow in a doubled leaded editorial under the caption, "A Warning" use the following language:

Such action on the part of the convention would be surely stultifying. If the president's message and the utterances of leading democrats in and out of congress since the appearance of that message are to result in a straddle and dodge on the part of the national convention then the party is betrayed and the battle is lost before it is begun. We are not authorized to say so, but we assert with confidence that Cleveland would not accept the nomination on a platform that would be practically a repudiation of the policy to which he has deliberately committed himself and which he has good reason to believe is heartily indorsed by the rank and file of the democratic party.

SCOTT FAVORS THURMAN.

Pennsylvania Will Cast Her Sixty Votes as a Unit for the "Old Roman."

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—It is reported to-night that William L. Scott stated at a meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation that he advocated the nomination of Thurman for vice-president, and that Judge Thurman was looked upon very favorably by the administration. This was twisted into a statement that Scott had announced that Judge Thurman was the administration candidate. Immediately after this it was learned that the Pennsylvania delegation had decided to support Thurman as a unit and would cast sixty votes for him. The report of Scott's open advocacy of Thurman caused much excitement among the followers of the other vice-presidential candidates and much joy among the Ohioan's advocates. As Scott's reported declaration was used with such effect and it could not be traced to any authoritative source, as attempt was made to interview him.

"I have no time at present," he said, "to make any statement regarding the situation."

"Have you expressed a preference for Thurman?" asked the reporter.

"Yes," he answered, "and the Pennsylvania delegation is solid for him."

"It is said you make this statement as the choice of the administration," said the reporter.

"I have no authority to make any such statement for the administration, and all I have said on the matter is entirely from my personal preference," said Scott, and he hastened to join the committee.

Telegrams were received from Virginia and West Virginia to-night saying the votes of those states would be cast for Thurman.

The Texas delegation arrived here last evening. Throckmorton, who heads the delegation, found a letter from Congressman Mills awaiting him, in which Mills requests that his name be not presented for vice-president. The Texas delegation had been instructed to vote for Mills, but in view of this letter will not present his name, and from interviews to-night with a dozen members of the delegation it is probable Texas will cast a solid vote for Thurman. A slight ripple of excitement was set in motion when it was learned, notwithstanding the fact that the election of Collins, of Massachusetts, for chairman was almost a foregone conclusion, that the Indiana delegates have elected Stanly to represent it on the committee on organization, with instructions to favor a Southern man to preside over the convention. It is doubtful, however, whether at this late day an effort to defeat Collins will prove successful.

THURMAN'S STRENGTH.

Tarpey, of California, to Present His Name—States that Will Vote for Him.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The honor of nominating Thurman will probably fall to California. The subject has been canvassed and as the coast stands close to the head of the list on the roll call, the friends of the judge will improve their time to capture the convention before the enthusiasm over Cleveland's nomination subsides. Chairman Tarpey has been selected to make the nomination. Governor White was first choice for the honor, but owing to the fact that there can be scarcely a doubt about him acting as temporary chairman, the delegates feel constrained to pick another one of their silver tongued members to electrify the gathering by presenting Thurman as the exponent of those ideas which endear him to the coast. The matter will not be settled till to-morrow's meeting.

Chairman Tarpey, in speaking about the report, admitted his desire to make the nominating speech:

"I have had intimate relations with Judge Thurman and his son, and nothing would give me more pleasure than to be vouchsafed a chance to tell the world what I know about him for the vice-presidency. I have known him socially and politically for a great many years and there are noble traits in his grand character that I think will sensibly aid the party during the coming campaign. All that is demanded is to have them placed before the convention in the proper light to carry the nomination by acclamation."

Indications are that the following states will give a large proportion, if not the whole vote of their delegations for Judge Thurman: California, Nevada, Oregon, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Alabama, Vermont, Rhode Island, Minnesota and Wisconsin. There will be many votes from other delegations and several other states will be solid for Thurman that have delegates not on the ground to make a report. Thurman men of Ohio claim that at least thirty-five of the delegation are openly favoring the old Roman. It is generally believed he will be nominated by acclamation.

NO ENTHUSIASM.

Cleveland Accepted by Many Politicians as a Medicine.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—It is astonishing how little enthusiasm is created by the mention of Cleveland's name. He is accepted by many of the politicians as a medicine is taken by the sick, because it is necessary. The only genuine feeling discovered here since the democrats have been gathering is that which, at one time at least, appeared for Thurman of Ohio.

Wind Storm in Arkansas.

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—A Times special says a furious storm swept over Washington county, Arkansas, yesterday, causing much loss of life and property. In one hamlet twelve houses were destroyed, and seven or eight persons were badly injured, while it is rumored that in the interior seven persons were killed. The last assertion has not been confirmed.

FROM CHINA AND JAPAN.

Two Big Fires—Particulars of a Wreck—Yokohama Harbor to be Improved.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The steamship Oceanic arrived from Hong Kong this morning via Yokohama. She brought sixty cabin passengers. There were 1061 Chinese in the steerage. The report of the vessel shows that she passed, on May 28, a schooner 130 feet in length on her beam ends. Her upper works were painted white. The wreck was noticed in latitude 40 degrees north, longitude 153 degrees west. The presumption is that it is a lost whaler or sealer.

On the morning of May 8 fire broke out at Tsurugak, a town of Japan, which consumed over 230 houses. The fire was extinguished on the following morning. Another fire occurred at Kamedo on the 9th inst. and 710 houses, one temple and thirty-eight huts were destroyed. As usual in cases of fire, the Japanese papers do not state the loss.

The American barque Sunbeam left Kobe on the 9th inst. with a cargo of coal for San Francisco. This is said to be the first shipment of coal from Japan to the United States.

LOSS OF THE ROCK TERRACE.

Following are the particulars of the loss of the British ship Rock Terrace: The vessel was about 1800 tons and bound from Philadelphia to Hiogo with a cargo of 70,000 boxes of petroleum. She had been ashore about twenty-one days before being abandoned. The Rock Terrace left New York on the 22d of September and on the 28th of January struck on Brougham reef and the next day was floated off and the pumps set to work, the vessel's course being shaped for the Phillipine islands. After thirty-four days' sailing Guam, in Marianas, was sighted on the 22d of March. As the crew were exhausted it was found impossible to run the ship to land, so the captain took to the boats. On the 28th of April the Spanish mail steamer Don Juan took the whole party on to Manila.

YOKOHAMA HARBOR.

The Hochi Shimbun states that at a cabinet conference it had been decided that the Japanese government take in hand the work of improving the harbor of Yokohama on an extended scale. The cost of the undertaking is estimated at about $1,700,000, but as it is proposed to devote the $1,300,000 indemnity returned by the United States government to the work, only a balance of some $300,000 or $400,000 will remain to be raised by the government. The work is expected to be completed within three years.

MURDEROUS DACOITS.

The Bangkok Times of April 25th says: On Sunday the last news arrived in Bangkok that a large number of Dacoits were devastating the country round about Savoy in British Burmah, and that they were then within twenty-four miles of the town itself, which was defended by twelve policemen only. The telegraph line between Savoy and Mulmain had been destroyed by the band, and they had also plundered and burnt several villages; but their chief object seems to have been to murder European officials. Savoy has a population of about 20,000. It is the headquarters of the deputy commissioner and is in telegraphic communication with the whole of India.

A JAPANESE EXECUTION.

Seven pirates, four Annamites and three Chinese were captured by a French gunboat the other day, in Halong bay, Japan, and were subsequently executed at Haiphong. To each man a separate executioner was appointed. Of seven, only one succeeded in striking off the head at the first blow, all the others having to hack them off by a succession of blows.

In a lake called Kawakita Gata, in Japan, a new island, which is about 532 feet long and 102 feet wide, is said to have sprung up during the night of the 29th of April. It is also said that a sandy hill, about 180 feet distant from the lake, was hollowed out during the same night.

THE CAPTAIN OF THE SAN PABLO'S STATEMENT.

Captain Reed, of the steamer San Pablo, which was lost on the China coast on the 18th of April, was among the passengers on the Oceanic. His statement of the wreck differs but little from the unofficial reports before received. He attributes the striking of the steamer on the rock to either an unknown or changing current. Owing to pirates he had the greatest difficulty in getting the passengers and specie off the vessel. He thinks that the fire that nearly consumed the steamer, was not purposely started by pirates, but was the result of an accident; probably from the sparks of a lighted cigarette. He estimated there were fifty pirates killed in the explosion following the fire.

TWENTY-SIX PERSONS DROWNED.

A steam launch catastrophe is reported in the Singapore papers. The launch Annam was proceeding from Johore to Singapore on the 28th ultimo, with thirty-five Chinese passengers and a crew of seven. When off Buddah, she encountered a furious squall, two heavy seas rushing in forward, and sinking her. Twenty-six persons were drowned, the rest being saved by fishermen and by the police. Most of the bodies have been recovered.

WRECK OF THE SAN PABLO SOLD.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The wreck of the steamer San Pablo was sold at public auction at Hong Kong on the 5th of May; the wreck bringing $470 and the cargo $50. Both wreck and cargo were bought by an Amoy firm.

A COMPLETE ANSWER.

The Cleveland democracy are at considerable pains to posture as the friends of the soldier, and are never tired of telling the republicans that "the war democrats" in the Union army put down the rebellion. Gov. Hubbard of Texas, an ex-Confederate, now United States minister to Japan, once made a democratic speech in Illinois in which he claimed that 60 per cent. of the Northern army were democrats. To this claim J. K. Magie, a Union veteran of the Seventy-eighth Illinois infantry, answers with great acuteness, as follows:

Logically and truthfully the late rebellion was a democratic war, deriving its justification from the doctrine of state rights, which was incorporated in the national democratic platform in 1852 and steadily voted for by every democrat down to 1864. This doctrine maintained the right of a state to secede when she wanted to. In other words, it declared that when a state had a grievance said state was not bound by unlimited submission to the federal government, but it had the right to choose its own mode and manner of redress. This was democratic doctrine both North and South. The South proceeded to exercise the right which the party declared it possessed. The republican party declared the South had no such right, that the doctrine was a heresy in this government. Every republican state and every republican governor stood upon the doctrine of national unity, while every democratic state and every democratic governor denied the right of President Lincoln to call out troops to coerce the South. So, then, when I, a soldier, enlisted in the Union army I knew precisely what I was about. I knew that I was trampling under my feet and destroying, as far as my power as a soldier went, the "main foundations of the democratic creed," which was the right of a state to resist federal authority.

When a democrat voluntarily enlisted and took his place at my side I welcomed him as a brother, fighting against his old creed and for republican doctrine. I furthermore believe that had democrats been as willing to vote against their creed as they were to fight against it we would never have been cursed with the late war. There are some men color blind. So there are some men principle blind. It is always better to trust a cause with its friends. From first to last the republican party was right. It was right in resisting slavery. It was right in resisting disunion. It was right in its reconstruction policy. It was right in its financial policy, and no party since history was written was ever more thoroughly vindicated by time and events, or more thoroughly vindicated even by its enemies than has been the republican party. At all events it has been oftener right than wrong, while the democratic party has been oftener wrong than right. As a citizen and a soldier I should be false to myself and to my country by voting for the democratic party and against the republican party.

WASHINGTON CITY LETTER.

Notes on Various Matters of Interest to the Northwest.

Investigation of the Alaska Fisheries—The Dalles Boat Railway Bill and Several Other Things.

[Special Correspondence of The Oregonian.]

WASHINGTON, May 26.

In accordance with the recent attack made by Governor Swineford upon the Alaska Commercial Company, the house has adopted a resolution authorizing the committee on merchant marine and fisheries to make a full and thorough investigation of the fur and seal fisheries of Alaska, to ascertain if any contracts or lease of the government have been violated, and to report such legislation as may be necessary for the better protection and preservation of the fur seals and other fisheries in Behring sea. The investigation will probably be held in this city. It promises to be a costly one and there is no telling how much cash it will take out of the treasury, for it is expected that witnesses will be brought all the way from Alaska. Chairman Dunn of the committee says it is impossible to tell how many witnesses there will be, or where they will come from. Governor Swineford in his report on the Alaska Commercial Company, which has just been printed, says that in his opinion, if some effective measures are not taken to ameliorate their condition, the complete extinction of the native inhabitants of the Aleutian islands, and on some parts of the mainland, will be a question of comparatively short time only.

He calls upon the general government to break down what he claims to be a giant monopoly which rests like a blighting curse upon the progress and welfare of the territory of Alaska. Among the documents accompanying the report is an affidavit of Isaac Anderson, who says he was in the employ of the Alaska Commercial Company, and makes a long list of charges, from which it would be adduced that the Alaska Commercial Company have violated almost every agreement they ever made. Among his charges is one that large quantities of villainous extracts, compounded of alcohol and vile substances and marked "Bay Rum," "J. J. Mack's Extract," etc., are shipped to Ounalaska on vessels owned by the Alaska Commercial Company, and sold or given to the natives for the purpose of intoxicating them at certain times when the company's agents wish to cheat and defraud the hunters out of their seal and otter skins and other articles of traffic; that said drinks are landed at Ounalaska by permission of the deputy collector of customs thereat, and there disposed of or shipped to other stations for like purposes.

The friends of the Alaska Commercial Company here in Washington say they are glad an investigation is to be made. They claim that they will show up Gov. Swineford in an unenviable light.

PROTECTION FOR GIRLS.

A number of petitions have been received by congress from different parts of the country praying for better legal protection for womanhood and girlhood, and that the age of consent be raised to eighteen years in the District of Columbia and territories of the United States where the general government has control.

Among those petitions was one presented by Senator Dolph in the senate from twenty-eight citizens of Independence, Polk county, Oregon. All these petitions have been referred to the senate committee on the judiciary for the purpose of formulating a bill to meet the wishes of the petition.

IMPORTANT PETITIONS.

Representative Hermann has presented resolutions of the board of trade of Portland favoring an appropriation by congress for the expense of the revenue marine; also one in favor of the Nicaragua Canal Company.

In the senate petitions were presented from the same body for the same object; also praying that river and harbor improvements be continued in charge of the army engineers instead of under the proposed civil bureau. Senator Dolph handed in these petitions.

LIZZIE WRIGHT OWEN.

The senate bill granting a pension to Lizzie Wright Owen was amended by the house so as to strike out the words from the bill "only surviving daughter of George Wright, late brigadier-general of United States volunteers," and "insert widow of —— Owen, late officer of the United States." Also cutting down the pensions from $50 to $10 a month. It was claimed that to grant her a pension because she was the daughter of a distinguished soldier would be establishing a hard precedent, and the change was made to conform to the usual custom of making it a widow's pension. The house, only two or three years ago, refused to grant a pension to the granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson. She had taken care of the patriot during his last illness, and was thought to be worthy of some consideration from the government, but for fear of the example that may beset future generations, the bill was defeated. For the same reasons the action was taken respecting Lizzie Wright Owen's bill.

THE BOAT RAILWAY BILL.

Senator Mitchell said to your correspondent that he was not quite satisfied that his bill for the construction of a boat railway at The Dalles would not pass the house. He is inclined to give the democratic majority there a chance rather than attach his measure in the form of an amendment to the river and harbor bill. In spite of their indifference respecting the needs of the Pacific coast, the senator is of opinion that the democratic majority of the house will hardly dare to ignore so important a matter as the proposed improvement, in which the people of the great Northwest are so vitally interested. Should he fail in his proposed course, Senator Mitchell would then have recourse to the river and harbor bill as before suggested.

NOTES.

Senator Mitchell was given a hearing on Thursday of this week by the senate committee on appropriations in behalf of a proposition formulated by him to open a part of the Cœur d'Alene Indian reservation under the timber culture and mineral land acts. He convinced the committee of the benefits to be derived from the plan, and an amendment was ordered incorporated in the federal appropriation bill for that purpose.

A bill to correct the military record of M. J. Gilstrap of Junction City was introduced in the senate by Senator Mitchell, as well as one to grant a pension to William Meyer.

Through the same senator a number of residents and citizens of Lynn county, Oregon, have petitioned congress in favor of a pension for William Meyer, late a private in company L, first regiment United States cavalry, and formerly a private in company B, forty-ninth regiment Illinois volunteers.

Citizens of Dayton, Oregon, have petitioned in favor of legislation for the payment of Indian depredation claims allowed by the interior department, which petition was handed in by Senator Mitchell, together with one of citizens of Sheridan, Yamhill county, for the better protection of Yellowstone National park. Effects on the Lumber Trade.

Yaquina Post.

The people of Alsea will be disappointed to learn that the parties who were about to invest a large amount of money in a sawmill plant, over there, have concluded to postpone the investment until the "free trade" craze, started by Cleveland, either runs out or is successful. Of course, if lumber is put on the "free list," then they will not invest. This "free trade" craze of that greatest of cranks, Cleveland, has dealt a terrible blow to both Alsea and Yaquina bay, retarding their growth and prosperity more than all other evils combined. If the people on this side of the range, as well as in the valley, fully appreciated the wicked and unjustifiable injury done their most vital interests by the democratic attempt to force "free trade" upon this country, the democratic ticket wouldn't get a single vote in the county.

James Bright, of Grant County, was Murdered by an Indian.

Desperate Struggle to Arrest the Assassin—His Father Killed by the Officers—Summary of Oregon and Washington Happenings.

An Indian called "Buccaro Jim," has been arrested at Burns, Grant County, for the murder of James Bright. The dead body of Bright was found about two weeks ago with a bullet through his brain covered over with sand. The Harney Valleys News gives the following account of the arrest Constables Johnson and Page made the arrest at the Indian camp but not without some trouble Page covered the Indian with his pistol, while the other undertook to tie him

Jim's father appeared upon the scene and approached Page with a knife when Page warned the old fellow to keep away but the old Indian continued to approach until he was within striking distance with his knife when Page fired, killing the Indian instantly. About this time a muscular squaw ran up and with a hard blow with a rock knocked Page down. During a large portion of this time Jim and the other officer were struggling and it was not until both fell into the ... and the Indian escaped As soon as Johnson freed himself from the assistant he ran for his gun and fired at Page, but luckily the shot did not take effect Seeing that they were overpowered by numbers the officers concluded to retreat and return with reinforcements.

Returning with a sufficient armed posse the Indians raised white flags and came out for a talk. They then agreed to deliver up Jim.

Johnson and Page then set out for Harney with the prisoner and while descending Pine Creek hill, Jim jumped from the wagon and came very nearly escaping After Jim had cooled off he told his captors that he saw another Indian kill Bright told just how he killed him, where the bullet hit, how he put a stone on the legs of the dead man and explained how he hauled him away and covered him with rock But the evidence disclosed the fact that the Indian accused by Jim was at work for Mr Motley all day on the day that Bright was killed

As soon as Jim was delivered to the authorities and it was understood he was to be tried, the friends of Jim dispatched a messenger to Burns for Capt. Waters to defend him. After riding all night the messenger arrived at Burns about sunrise on the following morning

On Monday the examination was had before Justice Davis, of Harney precinct and all the settlers for miles around were present The evidence showed many strong circumstances against Jim and Justice Davis held him to answer before the grand jury and Constable Mr Johnson left Burns yesterday with his prisoner for Canyon City where he will remain until the fall term of circuit court.

OREGON

No hopes are entertained of the recovery of Mrs. Stephen Minard of Roseburg who was injured in the runaway of the team on the mountain road to Coos bay

Valley Record W H Shepherd and son who are working on their quartz ledge about two miles south of Ashland will soon ship a ton of the rock to the Portland Reduction Works.

Two towns are bidding for the county seat of Wallowa. Joseph has offered to furnish the county building for a period of ten years providing the county seat remains there while Enterprise has made the same offer for a term of two years

W. H Stanley while riding near Ashland a few evenings since was accosted by a man who stepped up to the horse and with his hand in his back pocket demanded that he get off and give him the horse Mr Stanley at first thought it was some acquaintance but when he insisted on it Mr Stanley pulled out a revolver, when the highwayman hastily fled.

Ashland Tidings A J Taylor Samuel Marsh and Mr. Selph struck a quartz ledge near Gold Hill recently which shows very rich prospects. It is on the same ridge as the ledge from which Ray and McDonnell were reported to have taken several thousand dollars near the surface last year The men pounded out $236 with a hand mortar in one day and think they have plenty of that kind of rock.

A new depot and warehouse is building at Central Point for the O & C railroad The building will be 20x60 and contains an office waiting room and warehouse, also a side track platform 380 feet long and is to be finished in first-class style, to be completed and ready for business about the 1st of July The town site owner pays for the building and the salary of the agent for two years who will be appointed by the company

Salem Journal Archie G Wolford the son of John M Wolford the merchant and postmaster of Silverton has recently left home and no one knows where he went although he came to this city and boarded the train for the south Archie was about 22 years old, and married Elva Beard on the 1st of last March. The young husband and wife did not get along very well so he left home. The affair has created quite a stir

Fruit Prospects in Southern Oregon

Ashland Record The fruit prospects in Southern Oregon were never better The trees in this vicinity are loaded with fruit much of which has been knocked off so as to give the fruit a chance to attain some size From a conversation with a fruit dealer this week we learn that there will be ten times as much fruit raised in this section this year as last. This large increase is due to the many new orchards that come in this year and a large number of old orchards that did not bear last year have been pruned up and are full of fruit now Speculation on the prospects of the prices of peaches the coming season is this The completion of the railroad leaves the Californians a chance to send their peaches into this market in better condition than before If the peach crops of the Hood river and The Dalles district are good, and there is a glut in the Eastern markets for California peaches and the demand for canning purposes is light the prospects for good prices are poor But in the last two principal reasons there is hardly any danger as the experience of the last two years in California goes to show that there is a market and demand for all the peaches that can be raised on the coast Hence looking the situation all together the prospects are very good not only for a big yield but for good prices, too

The impression has prevailed heretofore that when the peach crop of California is about all gone the Southern Oregon peaches would begin to come in This is entirely erroneous, as last year's crop there lasted as long as it did here the peaches of the higher altitudes coming in in the latter part of the season, thus continuing in the market as long as we can.

Lakeview, Lake County

The town of Lakeview situated near Goose Lake, is one of the handsomest and most enterprising places in Eastern Oregon The merchants and business men generally are made of the kind of stuff that build cities The business blocks and dwelling houses would grace a city of 20 000 inhabitants The churches and school house are a sure indication of the moral and intellectual worth of the people The land office at this place is presided over by Judge W M Townsend and Hon A F Snelling gentlemen well qualified and very accommodating One of the principal factors in building up the town is the able newspaper the Examiner published by Beach Bros They have labored with might and main and are now reaping their reward from a generous and appreciative public.

Condition of Sheep in Jackson County

Ashland Record W M Stanley county stock inspector was detained in finishing the work of inspecting the sheep of this section of the county on account of the late storms There were a few bands around here some that diseased, whose owners were given up directions not to move them until well Some people think that the law creating a county stock inspector is of little use to the people. Mr. Stanley informs us that last year in the county over, 82 per cent of the sheep were diseased, while this year 22½ per cent are diseased—quite a benefit already

An Indian Relic.

Albany Herald Ulysses Hale of this city has received from his brother Wm. Hale, of Oakville, an Indian bow and arrow which was the means of many a sanguinary conflict, probably in an exciting chase for game, or perhaps in a treacherous fight with some old pioneer As an instance of the change that has come over the habits and mind of the American Indian, it might be said that the bow, which was quite artistic and covered with tendon, was purchased from a Klamath Indian for an old revolver Mr Hale prizes the relic very highly

The Yaquina Bay Jetty

The recent full tides have increased the damage to the government tramway at Yaquina bay already noted There have been over 3000 bags of sand placed in position to prevent the wash of the sea, but this would be of little service, if the high tides and rough sea come together as they may in June The damage is very serious both on account of the expense necessary to rebuild and on account of the delay making it impossible to do but little in the way of extension this season, if the present appropriation should fare no better than the last one

THE BIG BEND COUNTRY.

Upper Columbia Steamboat Line—Richness of the Country—Progress of Development

The large river steamer built at Pasco by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and sold to the Columbia Improvement Company for the Salmon river trade was launched June 1 and will be ready to start running in 10 days

With a good wagon road from the river to Ellensburg and one from the landing on the Okanagan to the mines Ellensburg will enjoy direct, easy and convenient communication with not only the great agricultural and stock region of the Big Bend but also what is considered by most competent miners the richest mining camp on the American continent

The concentrator at Conconully will be running probably this week and with a capacity of fifty tons per day will have quite a stock of ore ready to ship upon the first trip of the steamer

The advent of this steamer will give the camp a new impetus as it will give facilities for getting out the concentrators so the boys can get some money to go on with the much needed developments on their claims There are about 5000 people in and around the mines besides probably 10 000 more in the counties of Douglas and Kittitas who will become directly tributary to this city Many thousands in other counties are naturally tributary to the river route who are at present trading at great inconvenience with other points but will in a short time realize the advantage of a river route and patronize it According to estimates made by Lieutenant Symmons in his report of an exploration of the upper Columbia in 1881 the amount of country tributary to the steamboat navigation which will be open at once is as follows

	Sqr miles
Vicinity of Wenatchie and Entiat	120
Vicinity of Lake Chelan	100
Vicinity of Methow	500
Vicinity of Okanagan	1125
Great plain west of Grand and Moses Coulees	980
Total	2820

The Wenatchie valley which is thickly settled is the finest peach country in the northwest and will no doubt this year and in the future furnish the entire Sound country with the most luscious fruit Lake Chelan is probably the most beautiful lake on the continent. It is sixty miles long and abounds with trout and the mountains surrounding the western end are full of game Some excellent silver ore has been found at the head of the lake and samples brought to this city It is doubtless the same mineral belt which crops out on the Conconully and extends westward into the main range

On the Methow there are some fine mineral deposits besides the valley is good for agriculture and stock The Okanogan valley is well known and needs but little notice here It is the largest in that vicinity and will probably be the arena in which will be made in coming years the greatest fortunes ever amassed on the Pacific coast

On the south side of the Columbia lies the young empire itself Douglas county Thousands of people have already formed happy homes there but when one knows that there are eighty townships in one body in this county where a plow can be run from one boundary to the other without ever taking it out of the soil it is safe to promise homes for thousands more

EXPLORING FOR COAL

A Trip to the Dairy Creek Coal Fields, in Washington County

The visitor to the newly discovered coal fields on Dairy creek passes out through the more familiar parts of Washington county to Farmington Here you find the Farmington dairy located in a natural dairy district and producing 170 pounds of very fine butter per day After taking a glass of buttermilk made by the quick process you hie yourself to Mountain Dale a spot very suggestive of the name thence over a good road up Dairy creek whose fame no longer goes unsung as its merry ripple encourages the hardy prospector as he toils along with pick and visions of a fortune and a nice home for his Mary Ann He is awakened from his day dreaming by the singing of the busy saw at Quick's mill which may soon be busy sawing lumber for the mines only a little ways ahead Taking a drink from old Dairy you go on by many fine little places until you reach the east fork of Dairy creek, where you will find the old hunter and prospector John Hobble who is located in the first canyon as you go up the east fork Before going forth to see the wealth of coal it may be advisable to see Frau Hobble who is an excellent cook, and can furnish you with one of the mainstays so necessary for prospecting Having filled your knapsack you go cheerily on with renewed energy in search of the coal near at hand You find it cropping out in the canyons heading in the creek and out of the banks of the creek You soon meet others on the same errand as yourself who report good finds and are on their way to Hillsboro to see the genial county clerk and make good their claims There has not been much work done in this district yet though there will be very soon Returning via Glencoe you will stop to take a look at this prosperous little town situated in the midst of a very fine grain raising district You will be greeted by the smiling countenance of mine host and miller Martin Thompson who says that he is about to change the mill from the old process to the new roller process expecting as he does to have a good demand for flour from the neighboring mining district

You will learn on interviewing Mr Fowler the old merchant and agent for THE OREGONIAN that the people of this section are prospering and on the strength of the new life displayed here another blacksmith has linked his fortune with the good town of Glencoe.

A NOTE FROM ALBINA

ALBINA June 3

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

A circular has been distributed through Albina and doubtless throughout the county among other things charging Mr Joseph Simon with "treachery in Albina" in that he labored to prevent the terminal company's property here from being included in our city corporation This is false as can be proven by every citizen of Albina democrat or republican

In the first place the people of Albina in convention assembled before the meeting of the last legislature unanimously adopted a charter leaving out the terminal company's property This charter was passed by the legislature precisely as asked by the people Even if this property had been included in the limits of our city we would be no better off as we have no city taxes The saloon business and other licenses pay our running expenses The circular in question says that this corporation pays nothing towards the fire department of Albina, by which it is protected At the last fire the boys worked valiantly and saved much valuable property for the company and their services were remunerated by a check for $100 Besides the mains of the Albina Water Company have been attached to the terminal company's mains so that in case of fire we have a double pressure

The interest of this community does not require that the terminal company should be in the city limits hence it was not asked

THE SATSOP RAILROAD.

Remarkable Developments Made Recently in Mason County.

A Road Which Taps 500 Square Miles of Timber and Which Furnishes One-Fifth of the Total Output of Puget Sound.

[Special Correspondence of The Oregonian]

SHELTON W T June 2—When the average man sees a boom of logs his conception of the work connected with their cutting and transportation from different inland points seldom extends beyond a vague understanding that woodchoppers cut the trees down that many span of oxen driven by force of goads and most vigorous profanity slowly dragged the logs to some convenient place where they could be rolled into the water and then booms were made up and towed by tugs or steamboats to the sawmills This method was slow and unsatisfactory and when the desirable timber standing near streams of water was all removed it was then seen that some other method must be adopted in order to bring to the mills timber located so far inland that hauling it by oxen became impracticable Then it was that the first strictly logging railroad in Washington territory was constructed At first the road was only a few miles long but as fast as the timber was removed the road was extended until it has become the most notable enterprise along the coast in this territory The growth character extent influence and future of this road represents the substantial development of what promises to be one of the most flourishing counties in the territory There is nothing temporary in the character of this road It is a permanent improvement The road is the only practicable means by which timber growing upon 500 square miles of land can be taken to the mills, and besides the railroad now is and always will be a convenience to the people without which the development of the country would be greatly retarded The terminal point of the road is Shelton the county seat of Mason county The objective coast terminal is Gray's Harbor Between these two points there are 500 square miles of timber growing upon land which for agricultural purposes is equal to any in the territory and as this timber can be made available only by means of this railroad it may readily be understood how important a factor it is in the development of this county aside from the important part it plays as one of the leading industries of the territory

THE BEGINNING

Three years ago J R McDonald of Seattle, president of the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern Railway Company B B Healy and A H Anderson of LaCrosse Wis and C F White of Keokuk Iowa after carefully studying the logging industry on Puget sound saw that some new departure must be taken not only to supply the ever increasing demand for lumber but also in order to render available at all large tracts of the finest timber in the world and being entirely familiar with the lumber business and the conditions of success these gentlemen saw the necessity of a steam logging railroad The Satsop Railroad Company was organized and to-day its influence on the Puget sound lumber and logging business may be understood when it is known that this year it will supply about one fifth of all the logs cut in the Sound district Its present capacity in feet is the largest of any road on the coast and is between 250 000 and 300 000 a day It represents one of the most successful and interesting enterprises ever attempted on the Sound It was established in a section practically a wilderness and has done more to develop the country in that section than all other influences combined Shelton was selected as the terminal point on the Sound This flourishing town is located on Big Skookum bay, at the extreme westerly end of that arm of the Sound called Hammersley's inlet a most remarkable natural highway possessing the characteristics and appearance of a river and yet the advantages of depth requisite to deep sea traffic The word "Skookum" means good and the name was a happy inspiration on the part of the Indians for there is nothing about the inlet and bay and surrounding country that isn't very good although that which has accomplished the most substantial good is the Satsop railroad under the management of the enterprising gentlemen who organized and own it Mr McDonald is president, Mr White of Shelton secretary and general manager and Mr Healey and Mr Anderson participate in the management of the road as trustees Mr McDonald came to the Sound from Detroit Michigan four years ago and has ever since been actively identified with leading industries of the Sound He is president of the Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern railway and has always been one of the leading spirits of that organization and has done as much as any other one man in making that railroad an object of great interest to railways all over the country Being entirely familiar with the logging industry he brought to the Satsop railroad a familiarity with the details of such an enterprise which has resulted in the road always keeping in the lead No man is better known on the Sound or has earned more substantial and cordial recognition among business men Mr White as secretary and general manager of the company is also familiar with the logging and lumber interests and that which has probably contributed most immediately to the uniformly successful operation of the road is the disposition on Mr White's part to take his coat off and to do two or three men's work right along There is nothing about the logging business on Puget sound that he has not made himself familiar with The Satsop railroad is the object of his ever vigilant care Mr White brought to the Sound an aptitude for the lumber business and a comprehension of the conditions of success which has enabled him to uniformly and accurately meet all difficulties as they presented themselves until the road has become as has already been stated the leading factor in the development of the Southwestern sound country He was engaged in the milling business at Montrose Iowa Mr Healy is one of the leading capitalists in Wisconsin and is a millionaire several times over Mr Anderson is in the wholesale dry goods business and his house is second in size in Wisconsin These gentlemen were successful in whatever they were engaged in and it is not a matter of surprise that they should have accomplished so much here in so short a time

GROWTH OF THE ROAD

The growth of the road has been in proportion to the removal of the timber The first locomotive is a small affair compared with those since purchased by the company but all as well as the logging cars are of the most substantial character and embrace all the latest improvements The road itself has been constructed with uniform care Steel rails are used and is of standard gauge thus admitting of the extraordinary service performed by the company The main line of the road is fourteen miles long Every few miles branches run off into the timber and these vary in length from one half a mile to ten miles The route to Gray's harbor by way of Lake Nahanzell is the only available one and admits of the thorough development of the country The first locomotive has four drive wheels while the two others have each six drive wheels and are equal to any engines on railroads anywhere The company has now in regular use one hundred cars The two large locomotives pull the log trains from the various loading points to a point within two miles of Shelton from which point the light locomotive hauls them to the bay Fifteen trains of from nine to twelve cars each represent the average day's work There are eleven logging camps in which an aggregate of between 250 and 300 men are employed and these camps are not only gradually increasing in size but additional camps are being formed as the demand for logs increases From a road a few miles long three years ago it has expanded to its present proportions and will continue to expand until Gray's Harbor is reached and the timber growing on fourteen townships representing an aggregate of over 500 square miles is made available to the lumber trade This is believed to be the largest body of timber on the Pacific coast that can be tapped by one road The head waters of the Satsop river will be tapped The timber is of the finest character and is celebrated for its soundness and size. The output this year will reach 60 000 000 feet, and every indication points to further increase next year The trade of the company extends all over the Sound. The company has a large interest in the sawmill nearly completed, on the water front near Tacoma

The company owns very large tracts of the timber land referred to and by arrangements already perfected it will be transporters of the timber owned by others The Northern Pacific Railroad Company owns the alternate sections The Satsop Railroad Company is now transporter for the Northern Pacific of the timber on the latter's land

GENERAL RESULTS OF THE ENTERPRISE

Shelton is probably the most conspicuous evidence of the general effect the company's enterprise has exerted by way of the permanent development of the country Three years ago there was one house where the town of Shelton is now located Now Shelton by a recent vote of the people has been made the county seat of Mason county and all of the county offices are now located here The population of the town is now about 500 There are two hotels six stores postoffice livery stable two blacksmith shops drug store and the various trades are represented The Mason County Journal an interesting weekly newspaper is published here The town has regular communication by two lines of steamers with all parts of the Sound Pretentious business blocks are in course of erection including a large addition to the company's store and general office building There is life and bustle everywhere and no industrious man can fail to secure work provided he is willing It isn't a good place for loafers The land in Mason county is most favorably adapted for agricultural purposes and that now and fruitful demonstrates that the soil is very productive Fruits can be grown successfully there being a large orchard in Shelton The land is more nearly level than is generally found in other parts of the Sound Shelton now is one of the most flourishing towns in the Sound and the railroad will make the surrounding country tributary to it as rapidly as developed

Big Skookum bay is a beautiful sheet of water and admirably adapted for handling the company's enormous output of logs The railroad extends out to deep water and the logs are rolled from the cars into the bay at the point where the booms are made up A large force of men is employed in making up the booms ready for towing to the various mills on the Sound The site of Shelton is on a level stretch of land at the head of the bay and is not unlike Olympia in this respect The business with the interior and outlying towns is already large and is increasing rapidly Many new people are coming here and no one is disappointed

RICH GOLD QUARTZ

Specimens Mined in a New District Which Assay Very High

George Melvin has just returned from a two months trip to Ruby district district in the Salmon river mining region Washington territory He brought a piece of ore weighing fifty pounds which was taken from the bottom of the fifty foot shaft in the Idaho mine owned by George Flunder The specimen was obtained where the ledge is being crosscut at which point the vein was six feet wide and the workmen were not quite through it The ore averages between 60 and 70 ounces of silver and 40 per cent lead to the ton

Mr Melvin says the Arlington shaft is down 105 feet No work has been done on it since last fall operations being confined to driving the tunnel which is in 300 feet and is not yet finished

The fifty ton concentrator of a Puget sound company at Salmon City is about completed All the machinery is on hand and work will be begun before long

Mr Melville while in the mining district located the new town of Loup Loup on Ruby hill about a mile from the Arlington mine It has already begun to grow and eight or ten persons are building houses

Mr Melville says everything looks prosperous in the district A fund of $600 has been raised towards building a road from Salmon City to the Loup Loup toll road which will shorten the distance to Ellensburg W T about fourteen miles It is the intention to start work on this road about June 10 About $1000 will be required to build it Quite a number of miners and prospectors have left Ruby City for Wanacutt lake gold district about forty miles from Ruby which was discovered last fall The ore is said to be very rich and Mr Melvin saw some specimens which assayed up in the thousands to the ton A prospector who recently came from the district had 700 pounds of ore which was ... to coin in $500 in gold

THE COLUMBIA UNSURPASSED

A Traveler's Opinion of Columbia River Navigation as Compared with the Ganges

Parties who are inclined to worry about the slight obstructions which once in a while interfere with the passage of large ships up the Columbia river should talk with Mr John Sealy who has recently returned here from Calcutta His account of the great commerce which passes up and down the Ganges to Calcutta in spite of the perilous navigation of that river will set their minds at rest about the Columbia Calcutta is about 160 miles from the sea and it took the steamer in which he came away two days to get out to sea Corps of engineers and numbers of dragoons are constantly at work and thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent yearly in the work of keeping this river open and numbers of ships are lost in going up and down it and now there is a project on foot to cut a ship canal 100 miles in length to avoid the river altogether He thinks there is no river like the Columbia and has nowhere else beheld such scenery as along its banks

At Calcutta there are no wharves and ships loading wheat or jute the principal articles of export must lie off in the stream

Mr Sealy was well acquainted with Judge Bonham of Salem, American consul at Calcutta and frequently visited him to look over Oregon papers and chat about Oregon The climate of Calcutta has a most depressing and enervating effect on Americans, there being only three months in the winter when the heat is not oppressive India cannot compare with Oregon as a place to live in any more than tropical fruit can compare with Oregon apples Mr Sealy says he has often paid a rupee apiece for apples there and they were not to be compared to those we have in Oregon

Traveling is cheaper there than here however From Calcutta to Hong Kong Mr Sealy paid for no excess of baggage From Hong Kong to San Francisco he was charged $6 40 and from San Francisco to Portland $15 60 He thinks perhaps the large charge was made on account of the extra energy put forth in handling baggage at this end of the journey as a beautiful marble model of the Taj Mahal one of the wonders of the world which cost 200 rupees and which came as far as San Francisco all right was smashed on the voyage from there to Portland

ACADEMIC SERVICE

The services at Trinity church last evening were of more than passing interest

Bishop Morris was present and the following clergy Rev John Rosenberg Rev John Sellwood Rev William I MacEwan and Rev Mr Costelle The Bishop Scott Academy cadets were out in good number and marched in procession singing the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers"

Rev Mr Costelle preached an eloquent sermon from the text "Rejoice O young man in thy youth and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth and walk in the ways of thine heart and in the sight of thine eyes but know thou that for all these things God will bring thee to judgment" Ecclesiastes xi 9

The sermon was full of instruction and listened to intently by the boys and young men present

Glory to Grover's Elbow

New York Sun

Civil service reform did not die a natural death nor was it murdered It perished by lawful violence upon solemn warrant issued by the mighty democracy of the United States It makes little difference whose stalwart arm wielded the fatal ax and dealt the decapitating blow Somebody executed the Democracy's imperious command—that is enough Perhaps the masked executioner was Grover himself. If so glory to Grover's muscular but not lovely old elbow! The stroke was only effective

PORTLAND; MONDAY, JUNE 4.

WHAT THE CONTEST SIGNIFIES.

The contest in Oregon, to be decided by the voting to-day, is not merely a local one, though it has a local bearing. It is a contest in national politics, whose results may greatly affect our state.

The question is, shall the policy of the republican party, or that of the democratic party, prevail? This is the issue in the voting for representative in congress and for members of the legislature.

Which of the two parties, on a survey of their history, their tendencies, their purposes and achievements; their policies they respectively announce, the object they contend for, and the methods by which they propose to reach them, is the better one for the country at large, and especially which is the better one in a business and industrial sense for Oregon?

If this contention could be divested of partisan feeling, there would be scarcely two opinions among the people of Oregon as to the merits of the two policies. That is, it cannot be supposed that one quarter of the electors of the state would pronounce for the administration policy of striking at the industries of Oregon and yet of continuing protection to other parts of the country; of denying to us appropriations for our necessary public works and of adopting a fiscal system that will forbid such appropriations, through lack of funds in the treasury.

No one is in doubt as to which of the two parties is the more favorable to the development of an independent industrial system for our country; no one is in doubt as to which of the two would the more zealously push works of internal improvement; no one is in doubt as to which of the two, through its national policy, would render Oregon the better service by taking care of her interests, by preserving her industries against the too severe pressure of foreign competition, by pushing work upon her rivers and harbors, and in general by aiding the development of the state.

We have heard during the canvass the democratic doctrine that protective duties are unconstitutional. The complement of this doctrine is that the policy of public works is unconstitutional also. All democrats, it is true, do not affirm this, but the doctrine nevertheless permeates the democratic party, pervades it through and through. Hence while there are certain interests in those parts of the country which are looked to for democratic majorities that the democratic party still wants to protect through tariff legislation, yet it does not want the duties in general to be so high as to bring a large surplus into the treasury for use in pushing the policy of river and harbor work, coast fortification and other public improvements. This is the doctrine that underlies the policy of the present administration, and it is the basis of the Mills bill.

Every one sees at once that this policy is partisan, sectional and unfair. The fact is perfectly clear to large numbers who are so carried away by partisan feeling that they nevertheless will vote for it.

If we send men to congress who will support this policy we shall have no reason to complain when it prevails. Republicans in congress will not support it; democrats in congress will support it. Regard for her own interests, therefore, requires Oregon to return a republican to the house of representatives, and to elect a legislature that will send a republican senator.

The senate between the two parties is just upon an equipoise. If Oregon does not elect a republican senator now, the senate will pass into democratic control, and this body will no longer be a barrier against such measures of sectional and partisan legislation as the Mills bill proposes; nor will it longer be a check upon the appointment to the supreme bench of men committed to the confederate theory of government.

The contest in Oregon to be decided to-day is therefore a contest in national politics. Oregon to-day is to vote on national questions whose nature and bearing during the last two months have been fully discussed throughout the state. We shall now have the judgment of the people. The administration has forced the issue in our state, and THE OREGONIAN, now in closing, has to say of its own share in the contest that, acting from its views of public duty and from its conception of the true interests of the state and country, it has opposed the democratic party and its policy on this occasion, because it cannot regard that policy as a just or judicious one, and because it thinks that that policy, begotten of the sectional and partisan spirit that controls the democratic party, would be particularly hurtful to our own state. That this policy is begotten of a sectional and partisan spirit and that it has carried the democratic organization of Oregon through partisan motives there needs no other proof than the fact that the democratic platform of Oregon now is a complete reversal of the platform of two years ago.

AS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

As a business proposition Oregon ought to elect Hermann to congress, rather than Gearin.

First, as to the men. Hermann has shown during his two terms in congress that he is an active, energetic, laborious and tireless worker. Gearin has neither the temperament of a worker nor the habits of work. Hermann, besides his industry, has acquired experience. Gearin would go to congress as devoid of experience as of the temperament and habits of a worker.

Second, as to the politics they would respectively represent. Hermann is an opponent of the policy of the administration, a policy that would put Oregon at a disadvantage as to her industries, and would deprive her of the appropriations necessary for her public works. Gearin's supporters indeed will say that he would be as anxious to get appropriations for Oregon as Hermann could be, and yet the fact remains that the administration policy to which Gearin is committed proposes to cut down the revenues to a scale that will leave little or nothing for public works. Cleveland pocketed the last river and harbor bill, and then complained about the excess of money in the treasury.

Looking at the proposition in its business aspects, Oregon, if she wants a representative of her business interests, as well as a representative of the policy that will promote her business interests, should return Hermann to congress. For the same reason the voters of Oregon should elect a legislature that will send a republican to the United States senate.

The [illegible] printed Saturday, yesterday and to-day on the second page of THE OREGONIAN is an exact fac simile of the republican ticket, which has been registered as the law provides; only the ticket as we present it does not contain the names of candidates for the precinct offices, since these are different in every precinct. The voter, to make sure that he shall not be misled by spurious or pasted tickets, has only to put in his pocket a copy of THE OREGONIAN or cut out the printed form, and on reaching the polls verify by it the ticket he is going to vote. For all voters precautions are necessary to avoid impositions through tickets that are other than what they purport to be.

CLEVELAND AND GEN. GIBBON.

The rude treatment of Gen. Gibbon by the secretary of war and its still ruder endorsement by President Cleveland, has attracted a great deal of attention throughout the country. The view of THE OREGONIAN, that Gen. Gibbon was clearly right, has been endorsed by the Philadelphia Press, the Cincinnati Commercial and by a very able writer in the Army and Navy Journal, believed to be Gen James B. Fry, U. S. A. The case of Gen. Gibbon, since it has become a topic of national interest, and threatens ultimately to obtain legislative rectification at the hands of congress in shape of additional statutory elucidation of the rights and duties of army commanders under the "Articles of War," is worthy of restatement.

"The Articles of War" are a code for the army, made by congress for the purpose of establishing and preserving discipline. The 112th article says:

> Every officer who is authorized to order a general court-martial shall have power to pardon or mitigate any punishment adjudged by it, except the punishment of death or of dismissal of an officer. Every officer commanding a regiment or garrison in which a regimental or garrison court-martial may be held, shall have power to pardon or mitigate any punishment which such court may adjudge.

This power to "pardon or mitigate," conferred by this article, up to the advent of President Cleveland, has never been limited to the time of original action upon the proceedings, but has been considered to continue as long as any of the sentence remained to be acted upon. The military functionaries impose punishment in the interest of discipline, and are therefore, and must continue to be the judges to decide whether discipline is vindicated by a part or whole of the punishment.

Under date of June 22, 1887, the secretary of war, without assigning any reasons for the revocation of the power conferred by the 112th article upon Gen. Gibbon, directed him, commander of the department of the Columbia, an officer "authorized to order a general court-martial," to forego the power to "pardon or mitigate," in relation to "military prisoners confined in penitentiaries or state prisons," and to send these cases [illegible] is —the secretary's—office for final action by the "executive authority." On August 25, 1887, Gen. Gibbon in obedience to the law as he understood it, made an order remitting the unexpired part of the court-martial sentence to the Oregon state penitentiary of "Private Geo. F. Hayes, Co. D, 4th infantry," and directed that Hayes be set at liberty, and Hayes was released accordingly. When called upon by the secretary of war, (Sept. 10, 1887) for explanation, Gen. Gibbon replied that the "pardon was granted in accordance with law as contained in the 112th article of war," and added that he had "no right to presume that any instructions issued by the war department are designed to deprive department commanders of a power which the law declares they shall have."

The secretary of war, in reply rebuked Gen Gibbon for his action in assuming to construe the scope and meaning of the 112th article for himself and added: "No one can pardon a person sentenced to imprisonment for a crime under the laws of the United States, and confined in a penitentiary under sentence, except the president. The power conferred by the 112th article to pardon or mitigate a punishment adjudged by a court-martial, must be limited to the time when the findings of the court are before the officer named in the article for approval. After the finding and sentence are approved and the prisoner is committed to a penitentiary in execution of the sentence, the authority of such officer ceases; and the president alone can exercise clemency and pardon the offender."

Gen. Gibbon appealed to the president who sustained the secretary of war. The position of the secretary is absurd; his new construction of the 112th article is unsound and his order to Gen. Gibbon was unlawful. The Army and Navy Journal says:

> As it was the action of the department commander that put into operation the part of the military law that sent Geo. F. Hayes to the Oregon penitentiary and held him there for punishment, so was it the department commander's action in conformity to the express terms of the military law (112th article) that released military convict Hayes from the Oregon penitentiary. If the law in plain terms empowers an officer of the army to confer a benefit, as we hold the 112th article of war does, the officer is neither released from obligation to act nor excusable for failure to act, because the beneficiary is not under his immediate command. On the contrary, his part is to do what the law assigns to him, and if there is anything for others to do in the matter, leave that to the fair presumption that other public officers know, and will do their duty.
>
> The general is within his jurisdiction, properly speaking, when he makes the appointments in conformity to law. So is he within his jurisdiction when he issues a pardon according to the 112th article of war, no matter where the man pardoned may be. If the jailer holding the prisoner should refuse to release him on the pardon, the writ of habeas corpus would promptly afford a remedy.
>
> If a conflict really prevailed between the law and the jurisdiction, the proper course would be—not to nullify the law, but to adjust jurisdiction to carry out the law. If the matter in question had to rest upon so-called jurisdiction, we should then have to bear in mind that the secretary of war has, in fact, no more jurisdiction over a state penitentiary than a department commander.

An able defender of Gen. Gibbon further points out that officers engage to obey lawful orders, and may disobey unlawful orders, if the unlawfulness of the order is plainly apparent: We quote:

> In the case that occurred a soldier of Gen Gibbon's command was in the penitentiary at Salem, Or., by sentence of a court-martial which Gen. Gibbon had approved; and the prisoner begged that the judgment of the officer whose approval had sent him to prison might be exercised upon the question of letting him out. The colonel of the soldier's regiment and the captain of his company recommended that he be released. Gen. Gibbon thought he ought to be released and found that the terms of the law and the unbroken custom of war imposed upon him the power of release, but that orders from the secretary of war in Washington forbade him from acting in the matter. Was it a case for obedience or disobedience of orders?
>
> * * * * * * * *
>
> In this contest between Gen. Gibbon and the war department victory is on the side of authority; but it is proverbial that victory is sometimes worse than defeat.
> The attorney-general says that the constitutional "grant of power to pardon offences against the United States to the president alone, forbids the exercise of it by any one else," and that "the crimes or misdemeanors forbidden by the Articles of War, are offences against the United States." The fact is that many of the crimes or misdemeanors forbidden by the Articles of War, are never brought before court-martial. According to the supreme court the power of pardon may be exercised not only before sentence has been passed, but before any legal proceedings have been instituted. What would become of the service, and what would become of the president, if all such cases had to be sent up for the action of "Executive authority?" These offences are pardoned by military commanders by virtue of office, because they are regarded as offences against discipline and not "offences against the United States," in the meaning of the constitution.

In [illegible] Gen. Gibbon's defender, whether he be Gen. James B. Fry or some other equally accomplished soldier, has completely upset the secretary of war, the president and his pettifogging attorney-general. The only criticism to be passed upon Gen. Gibbon is whether discretion would not have been the better part of valor in deciding whether or not to disobey an order of the secretary of war that he deemed unlawful. The courts and military authorities hold that to justify disobedience the unlawfulness of the order must be plain to the most ordinary intelligence. The only mistake Gen. Gibbon made was that, in his generous loyalty to his political party, he confidently believed that President Cleveland was a man of ordinary intelligence, to whom the unlawfulness of the order of his secretary would be apparent, and Gen. Gibbon's disobedience, therefore, clearly justified. Gen. Gibbon was right in his disobedience, but he overestimated the intelligence of the president, or he never would have taken an appeal to him, only to receive another slap in the face.

FREE TRADE IN LUMBER.

Governor Pennoyer in his speech at Astoria advocated free trade in lumber, saying that neither he nor his sawmill company had fears of any competition or injury that might come to him or them in the lumber business from the British Columbia lumber manufacturers, in case the Mills' bill should become a law and our British cousins could send their lumber to our markets without paying the $2 per thousand duty. He said the extra freight from Victoria here would be a sufficient protection to American manufacturers.

An Astoria millman thinks this should be inquired into a little, and writes as follows to the Transcript:

> Governor Pennoyer's statement may be true as affecting Portland and interior towns where they have a home market and do not have to ship or send their lumber away from their mills. But how would it affect the millmen in Clatsop county and in Tillamook, Coos bay, on Puget sound and along one Pacific coast generally?
>
> Their market is in San Francisco and along the coast south of there; and it costs them as much to send their lumber to markets as it does the British Columbia mills to the same market, and to let the British Columbia lumber into those markets free of duty would actually depreciate the value of American lumber in those markets just $2 from the present price.
>
> This would stop all the lumbering enterprises on the Sound, on the lower Columbia and along this coast generally; for the mills at present are only making a fair living and they cannot afford to sell their lumber for 20 or 25 per cent. less than they do now. Taking $2 a thousand off lumber costing $8 or $10 per thousand is reducing the price 20 or 25 per cent.
>
> If the large milling establishments along the lower Columbia only should stop, the price of logs would go down from $1 to $2 per thousand, for the logging men must continue as long as they can sell at any price, for they must live, and hence the Portland mills would get their logs $1 or $2 cheaper than now, and their market for lumber would not be affected, unless perhaps the price of lumber might improve if the mills on the lower Columbia should stop. At any rate, there would be only disaster to all lumbering interests in Clatsop county, and Gov. Pennoyer's mill would reap part of our loss as a clear gain.
> Can it be that Gov. Pennoyer thus advocates free trade in lumbering with such candid sang froid because he knows it would benefit himself and associates at the expense of all the lumbermen on the lower Columbia river?

The representative of THE OREGONIAN who reported Mr. Swift's speech on Saturday night, though a reporter and writer of large experience, is new to Oregon, and therefore has not personal acquaintance with men and affairs here. Hence he made the mistake of stating that the person who introduced Mr. Swift was Mr. W. D. Hare, of Washington county. It was in fact Mr. L. T. Barin, chairman of the republican state central committee. There is a resemblance between Messrs. Hare and Barin that might easily mislead those who do not know both of them well.

The Roseburg Review, edited by a democratic preacher, politician and officeholder, named Bell, quoted Daniel Webster as having said, fifty years ago: "I have no hesitation in declaring that the income from customs must be reduced." Applying this to the present time, what reason is there for not putting sugar on the free list, which would reduce it by $60,000,000 per annum? No reason whatever, except that sugar is the product of a section that the democratic party must care for, so that it may still give democratic majorities.

Whitney, secretary of the navy, and representative of the coal oil monopoly in the cabinet, strongly urges the nomination of Thurman for the vice-presidency. Whitney thinks "Thurman can carry Indiana not only, but will make it uncomfortably warm for the republicans in Ohio, and very possibly carry the Pacific slope states." Why then not put Thurman on for president instead of Cleveland? This praise of Thurman reads very much like a reproach of the inferior man who is to be placed above him.

The Seattle Daily Times has developed a new scheme—strictly Western—to increase its circulation and influence. It will send, free of cost, the paper for thirty days to all new arrivals in Seattle. It is only necessary to send names and addresses to the publication office. The Times now prints an eight-page paper three times a week, and its advertising columns, like those of all the Seattle papers, speak volumes regarding the prosperity of the city.

A circular gotten out yesterday afternoon, containing an appeal for defeat of the republican ticket so as to "purify" the republican party, came from democratic sources. It is amusing and even ludicrous to note this solicitude. The object is to secure concentration on one of the democratic candidates for the senate, so as to beat one of the republicans.

"Inquirer," at Springwater, Clackamas county, wants to know the origin and meaning of the word "mugwump" and whether it has any reference to a toad or tadpole. It is said to be a New England word of Indian origin, and to have been used in nearly its present form in Eliot's Indian bible. Its meaning we do not recall.

Voting on representation in congress as a business proposition, between Herman and Gearin, Multnomah county ought to give Hermann nearly a unanimous vote.

The republican who does not vote to send republicans to the legislature, votes to give up the United States senate to the democrats.

RETURN HERMANN TO CONGRESS.

From the Astorian.

The states that have influence congressionally, send experienced men, well posted in congressional requirements, and able to do some good. Especially is this needed where there is a small delegation. Oregon only sends three, one of these is in the lower house. As a matter of business, apart from any political feeling, it is the part of prudence and common sense to retain in public employment a man who has by experience fitted himself to be of some use to the commonwealth. Binger Hermann has done some good work for the state of Oregon, and without any desire to honor or endorse him it is in the direct line of self help for the people of Oregon to help their own interests by voting to keep him where he has shown he can help the state regardless of politics. For this reason, which it believes to be a sound one the Astorian advocates the re-election of Binger Hermann. No faithful business man discharges an honest and experienced employe to give the situation to a green hand.

Total vote, 64,954.

We shall expect a total vote to-day of 60,000, perhaps 62,000. The gain from June, 1884, to June 1886, was 5603. The gain is likely to be larger during these two years than during the two years from 1884 to 1886.

TEMPTATION!

In justice to our new stock of Novelties we cannot use a more fitting word than "Temptation." The styles and prices are tempting. We are furnishing new Lace Flouncings, and allovers to match, at temptation prices. Our new Spring Dress Goods are marvels of beauty—particularly in the high tints in new shades of Reseda, Gobelin, Raspberry, Terra Cotta, Castor, Mahogany, etc. The materials are very graceful, among them Sicilians, Henriettas, Chevrons and Sebastopols. If you look at our combination embroidered robes you will be tempted to buy one. The same may be safely said of our White and Fancy Colored Wash Dress Fabrics, of which we have a large and varied assortment.

PARASOLS.

You will miss a bargain if you forget to look at our Parasols, as we are closing out the stock. It is a pleasure to show goods, whether you wish to purchase or not.

The fact is established beyond a reasonable doubt that our prices compare with those asked by Eastern houses for the same lines of goods. Samples on application.

NOVELTY IN COLLARS.—The swellest thing that has appeared in collars for several years has recently been introduced into Portland, but has been worn by only a few, as only a limited number were sent on for trial. It is known as the "Purgatory" collar, and probably owes its name to the fact that it keeps men having thick necks and double chins out of the purgatory into which the conventional collar plunges them. It is a combination of a turn-down and stand-up collar, combining the ease of the first with the dressiness of the second, and those who have tried it say any man could not possibly dress his neck more comfortably or tastefully. Real, solid, old fashioned comfort is its purpose, combined with the trimness which is lacking in most collars for large men. It is simply a low, straight collar, with lapped ends surmounted at the sides and back with a flaring top, into which a big chin can nestle comfortably without breaking either the chin or the collar. The Purgatory collar is said to be the invention of E. Berry Wall, so long a director in the realm of fashion in New York.

A SHEEP-Y INCIDENT.—A band of sheep was being driven up Second street Saturday and as they were nearing Stark, a drayman and a vegetable man drew to one side to let them pass. Part of the band followed the man on horseback leading them, but one smutty-faced fellow took a notion to turn down Stark street and a large number followed him. Mr. John O'Shea who was driving the band motioned to a foxy, muzzled, sheep dog with an abbreviated caudal appendage, and the sagacious brute ran ahead, seized the smutty-faced sheep who was leading his brethren astray and gave him such a sharp nip in the shoulder that he turned about in a hurry and then the dog ran along the line showing his teeth at the other sheep and in a jiffy they were all back in the ranks. The intelligence displayed by the dog pleased all who beheld the incident. The drayman exclaimed, "begorra, he's the boy can do it; that dog's worth a thousand dollars;" while the Chinese vegetable man yelled, "he heap savy, he heap smart."

THREE DEMOCRATS BREAK DOWN.—Yesterday morning Governor Thayer, wishing to show Mr. A. Bush his place back of East Portland, invited a republican friend to drive them out. Col. J. P. Irish was invited to occupy the fourth seat in the carriage. The party had a very pleasant drive behind a very fast team, till in turning a corner out near H. B. Oatman's place, a wheel broke down. This put an end to the fun, and the party walked to Mr. Oatman's while another carriage was procured. Mr. Thayer is inclined to think that Mr. De Lashmutt smashed the wheel on purpose, with the idea of extinguishing the batch of democratic luminaries on board. Mr. De Lashmutt vows it will be a long time before he loads up with so much democracy again.

FOR RECORDER.—W. L. Dudley, the republican nominee for recorder, is a young man well and favorably known to the entire city. He is a Portland raised young man, and a skillful and competent accountant, and a universally popular young man. He will [illegible] qualified to fill the position.

THREE THIEVING TRAMPS.—An evening or two since P. Flaherty, track walker on the O. R. & N. Co.'s road near Shell Rock, met three tramps going west. As they had to pass his house he soon turned back, and on arriving at his place found the back door open, and his revolver, all his provisions and a number of small articles gone. Procuring assistance he started out in pursuit, and overtook the tramps near Wyeth. One of them took to the hills and, it being dusk, escaped. Of the other men one was a Scandinavian, about five feet four inches in hight, light moustache and broad-brimmed white hat; the other was about five feet nine inches in hight, dark complexion, small dark moustache, fairly well dressed, and had on a cartridge belt. The above description of the men is forwarded by Mr. J. D. Roos, of Wyeth, as a warning to others to look out for them.

GRAND MINING SCHEME.—The Inez Mining Company, incorporated a day or two since, is the grandest mining scheme yet planned and carried out here. The incorporators, Messrs. DeLashmutt, Oatman and Knowles, have been working for some time to secure the property now owned by this company, which comprises about six claims, including the Oakland, Lexington and Viola, occupying the entire territory between the Sierra Nevada mine and the Tyler, which has all been consolidated in one grand mine. The lode has been prospected, and there is no doubt but that it is as good as that part of it now being worked in the Sierra Nevada. Work has already been commenced on the Inez mine, and a large force will be put on at once, and it will not be long till an idea can be formed of the amount of wealth stored there.

ELEVATORS—WATER RATES.—There was some talk about the elevators in various buildings closing down on the 1st of this month on account of the announcement made by the water committee that the rates would be raised at that time. The elevators are all running, however, the same as usual, but proprietors are taking steps toward securing cheaper rates for water in the near future. Some talk of putting up tanks and an engine and using the water over and over again, and some of attaching to the mains of the hydraulic company. Just what will be the result remains to be seen, but there will be an effort to avoid paying the rates charged by the water committee, which are considered extortionate.

SUPPOSED MAD DOG SHOT.—Yesterday afternoon a large red setter dog strayed into the premises of Mr. George W. Bishop, on South Third street, and acted in a manner which led him to suppose the animal was mad. Seeing no other way of disposing of the unwelcome visitor without imperiling himself and family, he shot and killed it. It is not likely that the dog was mad, as it is a pretty well established fact that there has not been a case known of a dog going mad in this section, but there was something wrong with the animal, and he ran around and round snapping and biting and acting very queerly, and Mr. Bishop was justified in shooting him.

OUR WANDERING BOYS.—The following in regard to two young men of this city, who are on their travels, is clipped from the Harney Valley Times: Mr. Ivan Humason and Dr. J. M. Wells, of Portland, arrived in Burns yesterday on a sight-seeing expedition through Eastern Oregon. They came by the way of Baker City, horseback, and in true pioneer style, disdaining all hotels, and camping. These young gentlemen are representative citizens, and will undoubtedly give a good report of this country. They will return by the way of Prineville and the Lebanon route.

DELAY IN APPEARING.—The Martinelli Big 4 show, numbering twenty people, arrived from the Sound last evening and go to Vancouver, where they play to-night. They were to open at the New Park this evening, but Manager Howe gave up the theater to the Cedar Hill Dramatic Club, who give the "kindergarten" benefit, consequently this great specialty company play Vancouver. They will positively appear at the New Park to-morrow evening.

FOR CHARITY.—To-night is the time set for the Free Kindergarten benefit. The comedy "Our Boys" will receive its initial production at the hands of the Cedar Hill Comedy club at the New Park theater. All the reserved seats have been taken, and the house will be jammed.

SPOILED TROUT.—Those who put up ten to twenty dollars for a team, and spend a day or two working hard along some brushy stream, and come home worn out, with a dozen or so of trout, will be disgusted to learn that a dealer here received fifty dozen brook trout by one boat down the Columbia, a few days since, and that owing to the hot weather the fish spoiled so quickly that thirty dozen of them were thrown away. It is enough to make a fisherman weep to think of thirty dozen of trout which would have filled his creel and knapsack, and his pockets agoing to the demnition bow wows at one fell swoop.

LEG BROKEN.—George Clausmyer, a hostler employed at Wilbur's stables, met with a serious accident entailing a compound fracture of the right leg, at 10 o'clock last night. He was standing on the front platform of one of the G street cars and in attempting to get off at Eleventh street he slipped and fell under the car, one wheel of which passed over his leg. He was taken to his home at 190 Eleventh street and later to Good Samaritan hospital. Dr. Holt C. Wilson set the fracture. Clausmyer blames no one but himself for the accident.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of the United States vs. Schneider, on the demurrer to the defence of estoppel.

FOR SHERIFF.

A Citizen's Opinion of the Democratic Nominee for Sheriff.

Mr. R. R. Thompson, the democratic nominee for sheriff, deserves the support of the voters of this county, irrespective of party affiliation, for many good reasons.

He was born and raised in Oregon, and has been identified with the commercial progress of this city, county and state for many years. All who know him can vouch for his unswerving integrity, genial friendship and marked ability. After having graduated at a California college in early manhood, he made a tour of the United States and Europe with his father, Capt. R. R. Thompson, and upon his return took a position as purser with the O. S. N. Co., which he followed for two years, when he became a member of the firm of Northrup & Thompson, out of which grew the present firm of Thompson, DeHart & Co., of which he was the senior partner for many years, retiring some three years ago on account of impairment of health, since which time he has devoted his means and energy, as few have, in advancing the interests of all classes in this community. The Electric Light Company, the Portland Cable Railway Company and the Union Iron Works, in each of which he is either officer or director, to say nothing of many enterprises of less magnitude, can all testify to substantial assistance received at his hands.

Henry Thompson is anything but a politician, and his nomination came to him unsought and was accepted free from all pledges save one, that of a faithful performance of his official duties, if elected, and of this the county can feel well assured, in view of his record as a citizen of this county. It is well beknown that he possesses all the requisites of a good officer, being a man of superior clerical and executive ability, of uniform courtesy, as well as a taxpayer, property-owner and, last but not least, what none can dispute who know him, an honest man. Vote for him.

MARVELS OF THE MAYAS.

The Antiquities Unearthed in Yucatan.

Specimens, Tracings and Wonderful Fac Similes—The Remarkable Collection of Dr. LePlongeon—Art Treasures Rivaling Those of Greece.

Brooklyn Eagle

It is well known that the Egyptians and Etruscans decorated the tombs of their illustrious personages with fresco paintings representing events in their lives and the customs of their times, but very few persons are aware that a similar practice prevailed on this continent and that such paintings yet exist among the ruined temples and palaces of the once powerful Maya people in the peninsula of Yucatan. There is now in Brooklyn a fac simile and a very perfect one, of frescoes found in a monument at Chichen Itza. These paintings are the property of the learned archæologist Dr Augustus Le Plongeon who in 1875, copied them from the originals that adorn the interior walls of an edifice which was built by order of a queen named Mo to the memory of her husband, Coh, or Chaacmol. His statue unearthed by Dr Le Plongeon from a grand mausoleum in Chichen Itza, is now in the National museum at Mexico City having been taken by force of arms by Mexican authorities from where the finder had left it in supposed safety and concealment. A plaster cast of the statue is in the National museum at Washington and another in Paris at the Trocadero.

On an elevation of solid masonry forty feet high a monument was built in memory of Chaacmol. Neither time nor labor was spared in beautifying it; patient artificers and clever artists toiled there long and patiently. This is apparent even now though for a thousand years at least the edifice has been abandoned and, what is worse wilfully damaged, first by invaders then by destructive sightseers. The stone steps have disappeared, so that the steep ascent to the building is not easy. The entrance faces west and the structure when entire consisted of two chambers the front one being a grand portico by reason of the outer half of the triangular arched roof resting on two massive columns, nearly four feet in diameter carved to represent the body of a snake covered with feathers. It is not within the scope of this article to explain the meaning of the feathered serpent—the head forming the base of the column and the tongue, weighing about a hundred pounds projecting on the polished stone floor of the portico. Beside being exquisitely carved these columns had been brightly colored like all the rest of the sculptures in those ancient cities even the whole exterior of houses, in some cases, being covered with sculptures from base to roof. The arched roof once supported by the columns had fallen forming a heap of debris that not only half filled the doorway leading to the inner room but completely hid the great heads, only the shaft of one column being visible, so that their existence was not suspected until Dr Le Plongeon excavated there.

Further search brought to light a superb altar placed before the entrance of the inner room. The stone table or upper part of the altar was more than six feet square and eight inches thick within the eight inch space all round, there were beautiful carvings representing priests in their robes of office performing religious rites. On the upper surface of the altar there were

TWO LIFE-SIZED FIGURES

A priest seated making an offering to Chaacmol, who stands before him. The altar was erected that offerings might be made on it to his manes. Fifteen caryatids supported the table. They stood three abreast and five deep. No two were alike in features, dress or ornaments though all were of one shape and size. Such dissimilarity in the faces would make it appear probable that each was a portrait of some person closely connected with the dead prince. The arms of the caryatids were uplifted the hands losing themselves in the flat part of the stone above their heads on which the table rested. All these figures had the whites of their eyes formed of polished shell, the pupils being made of feldspar. Every toe of each foot was likewise furnished with highly polished shell nails, neatly fitted. It is a most remarkable fact that some of the garments and badges seen on these figures are precisely the same as those now in use among Burmese officers of rank while the altar itself with its caryatids, is so like certain structures seen among the ruins of Angor Tom in Indo China that one might suppose they had been designed by the same architect. Unfortunately the upper part of the altar had been broken by the falling of the roof but some of the caryatids were yet perfect and Dr Le Plongeon made photographs and molds of them, in order to produce fac similes. He did the same with all sculptures and inscriptions having now in his possession several large cases of perfect molds by means of which he says, aided by the photographs and plans made by himself and Mme Le Plongeon he is prepared to build in any part of the world a complete palace or temple with all its decorations like those hidden among the tropical forests of Yucatan. The doctor expressed much regret that Americans do not know more about the wonderful ancient cities among which he and his wife have labored so long and he thinks that the best way to make such antiquities known would be to provide the means of studying them at home there being many drawbacks to life in the wilds of Central America.

The doorway leading to the inner room of the Chaacmol monument has a lintel of sapote wood, its three exposed sides are carved. Considering the closeness and depth of the carving it is hard to realize that the artists had no finer tools than those made of shale and obsidian, the intaglios are nearly three-fourths of an inch deep and sapote is very hard. In cleaning it preparatory to making a mold Dr Le Plongeon discovered that it was coated with a yellowish gummy substance that being rubbed with a wet brush yielded a thick froth; he thought it likely that the stuff had been put on to preserve the wood.

The jambs of the doorway as well as square pillars resting against them, are covered on every side with sculptures representing warriors their garments, ornaments and weapons being painted with bright colors and this coloring of the sculptures again reminds us that the same thing was done in Egypt Assyria and Greece the like colors being used in all those countries. The inner room is twenty six feet long and eight deep. The walls are perpendicular to a hight of eleven feet the upper part forming a triangular arch whose apex is twenty one feet above the floor. The thick polished stucco had been

COVERED WITH PAINTINGS

To the top of the arch but the greater part had crumbled away mingling its dust with that of the concrete floor. Even where it yet held to the stones most of the paintings were faded but some portions still remained clear and distinct. The colors were red blue green and yellow the outlines being all dark brown this color though of a different shade also serving to represent objects of wood such as large boats depicted on one part of the wall. Just opposite the entrance there are two men nearly life size one holding three spears, the other facing him with clenched fists is unarmed. These are Chaacmol and his brother who murdered him. Above the doorway is a group the central figure of which is a dead man stretched on the ground with a round stone pillar under his waist. By his side stands a woman wearing only a short skirt though in all the other pictures the women are clothed from head to foot. At the feet of the corpse and holding them kneels another woman quite nude. The body has been cut open under the ribs and near by stands a weeping youth holding the extracted heart whose ashes are to be preserved in an urn. A young man standing close to the kneeling woman carries across his arm a peculiar belt intended to hide the unsightly gash in the body, for the same is seen wrapped round a life size figure extended on its back, just above the group. This scene portrays the preparation for the funeral rites and cremation of the body of Chaacmol.

The pictures on that part of the wall best preserved are separated into tableaux, divided by horizontal lines of blue paint. The human figures vary in hight between six and nine inches; the outlines are bold and graceful—far more so than in the work of ancient Egyptian artists, who also, like the Mayas, painted in flat tints and knew very little, if anything, about perspective.

These frescoes are the only remnants now existing of ancient American paintings, and are consequently of great value and interest. John L. Stephens who saw them in 1842 alludes to the room in which they are as "a casket containing, though broken and disfigured, perhaps the greatest gem of aboriginal art which on the whole continent of America now survives." ("Travels in Yucatan," vol. ii, page 310).

Battles, religious ceremonies domestic scenes were depicted on these walls—priests in feathered robes, soldiers marching and fighting, villagers abandoning their homes, standard bearers and processions. Seeing that many parts of the walls were scratched and disfigured by idle tourists who evidently thought them more interesting to posterity than the works of art they so foolishly defaced Dr and Mme Le Plongeon decided to make a faithful copy of all the figures that were yet distinct. They had no tracing paper but succeeded in making note paper sufficiently transparent by saturating it in grease. These small pieces being secured to the wall by wax at each corner the lines were carefully traced the color of each part being written on the tracing so that a perfect copy, both in size and color, might afterward be made. Twenty tableaux were in this way rescued from obliteration. The task of tracing occupied nearly two months, owing to the difficulty of working without a scaffold. A very rustic ladder is all that could be fashioned in the woods and the forced position while standing on that to trace the pictures on the triangular arch was very distressing.

As stated at the beginning of this article Dr Le Plongeon has finished copy of the tableaux and he considers it of such great interest to students that he intends to write a book on the subject treating of various matters suggested by the pictures. They were a pictorial record of certain events in the life of Chaacmol and those most nearly connected with him. The various people seen on the wall prove conclusively that the artists were acquainted with the inhabitants of more than one country, the probability being that foreigners visited or dwelt in Yucatan. On one part of the wall there is a procession of on another men of gigantic stature compared with the Mayas. There are likewise diminutive people remarkable for their ugliness. This diversity of types makes the frescoes an interesting study for ethnologists. Some of the tableaux enabled us to see that as among the Egyptians Etruscans and other nations of what we are accustomed to call the Old World so among the Mayas of Central America there were haruspices whose business it was to open live animals and consult their entrails in the belief that from them they could learn something of coming events. Also soothsayers who performed the ceremony known among the Chinese as Pu which consists in consulting the lines formed by the cracking of the shell of a live turtle placed on a brasier over a slow fire and by observing how the vapor condenses on its back. One picture represents Princess Mo when a child consulting fate; she is seated beneath a royal banner while the wise man in his feather robes inflicts a lingering death on a wretched armadillo (instead of turtle) and endeavors to read the little girl's destiny on the creature's shell. The Mayas were evidently as eager to peer into the future as many now among us. Even professional clairvoyants seem to have been in demand for among the many figures there are two men facing each other one with his eyes closed, the other a priest gazing fixedly at him and making passes from his head to his feet at the same time ordering him to sleep, such speech being indicated by a short scroll issuing from the lips of the operator. Many of the figures have similar scrolls their meaning varying according to the shape, size and color, as Dr Le Plongeon explains in the large work he is now preparing for the press.

It seems that more than one museum would be glad to acquire this fac simile of ancient American frescoes the only existing vestiges of the art of painting among the inhabitants of this continent in ages gone by. Prof Spencer Baird for many years the honored secretary of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, wrote to Dr Le Plongeon as follows: "I am sorry to say that we have no funds of our own with which to purchase a collection. I have written to one or two friends of science who have ample means respecting the matter, and it is not impossible that some results may come from it." And Prof Isaac H Hall, curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has in a report written by request of Gen di Cesnola, given his opinion on the scientific and historical importance of these paintings, concluding with the words: "In my opinion the tableaux copies of the ancient frescoes are exceedingly desirable to any museum that can obtain them."

Dr Le Plongeon talks of taking his collections to the Paris exhibition and is in correspondence with M Guimet who is building at his own expense a museum of Indian and Chinese antiquities, near the Trocadero building. M Guimet has placed the pages of the "Annals of the Guimet Museum" at the doctor's disposal for anything he desires to publish on the subject of archæology. But it seems to us that these collections should be retained in the United States for as Prof Agassiz (who has seen the original frescoes on the wall at Chichen Itza) in a letter to Dr Le Plongeon says: "The time has come when such things should be got at any cost. We shall soon be as they are in India now hunting everywhere for things which were easily to be had a few years ago."

GREAT PRIVATE LIBRARIES.

High-Priced Books Owned by Distinguished Americans

An Interview With Charles Southeran—The Library of Bancroft, the Historian—Jay Gould's Immense Collection

"Roscoe Conkling was an excellent judge of books and bibliophilists will enjoy rare opportunities of investment if his library is offered for sale."

So spoke Charles Southeran, the famous bibliophilist, in a recent interview with the writer. Mr Southeran was born among books. He is an Englishman and his uncle is the head of the English book house of Southeran in Piccadilly London. He has studied books since he could read and has grown up among them. For years he has been connected with the press of this country as a book reviewer and literary critic. He has handled more books and manuscripts than any other man in the country, knows all about the private libraries of all the bibliomanes and knows by instinct whether an old manuscript is worth 10 cents or $100. He possesses a rare knowledge of the treasures of missals, curios, rare editions, engravings, erotics and manuscripts. He was found recently at his office on Broadway examining the books of L Delmonte an old Cuban. He chatted pleasantly about the books and about the buyers. To a bohemian his room presented an odd appearance. Books missals and manuscripts were strewn in every direction dusty and time worn, some of them. They were all waiting for him to study and to catalogue ready for sale. No one can handle the books until Mr Southeran has noted them. Many an old bibliophile would be glad to give anything to be able to see them and handle them. Talking of valuable books Mr Southeran said: "The highest price ever paid for a book was $50 000. It was for a vellum missal which was presented to King Henry VIII by Pope Leo X. The missal was accompanied by a document making King Henry the defender of the faith. It is now in the possession of the German government. Charles II gave it to an ancestor of the Duke of Hamilton and it was sold a few years ago in the sale of the Duke of Hamilton's library. There is a Hebrew bible in the Vatican. Attempts have often been made to purchase it. The Jews of Venice offered to give its weight in gold. The offer was declined. The Bible consists of a vast roll of manuscript which requires two men to carry it and the offer would have footed up about $100 000. This is the largest offer ever made for one book."

The most valuable manuscript in this country judging from the price paid is in the possession of John Jacob Astor. It is the Sforza Missal and was bought in April last year for $15,500. It is of a religious character and is by Francesco Filippo Lippi, the great Florentine artist of the Renaissance and was prepared for Galeazzo Maria Sforza Duke of Milan and brother in law of Louis XI king of France. It is a manuscript measuring 14¾ inches by 9¾ inches. It has 484 pages of vellum and is bound in red morocco. It is dated in the fifteenth century.

A set of missals consisting of five volumes was bought in March of last year by S B Duryea, of Brooklyn. It cost $900 and comprises the choir books with the full musical score used in a European monastery. It was written in the fifteenth century. The bindings are very strong. Iron nails are studded all over the covers.

"Les Lunettes des Princes" published in 1528 by Galliot du Pre sold recently for $200. It is a small volume measuring about six inches by four inches. It was bound by Trautz Bauzonnet in crushed levant morocco. The work on the cover, both inside and outside is very handsome.

A little volume called "Chansons et Motets" sold for $800. It is one of the handsomest bound books ever made. The binding is exquisite. It was made for Henry II of France and was presented by him as a love gift to his mistress Diana of Poitiers. It measures 5¾ inches by 7¾ inches and contains 86 pages. Mr Brayton Ives is the owner now. It is superbly bound in original French binding richly gold tooled and embossed and gauffered edges in a modern purple velvet leather lined drop case.

A Persian manuscript sold a little while ago for $235. These manuscripts are very rare. It is a magnificently illustrated manuscript codex of Firdusi's "Epic of Kings." It has forty five pages of large paintings with four superb headings painted in the style of Persian paleography. Its size is 11½ inches by 8¾ inches and is bound in morocco.

An imperfect copy of the first folio of Shakespeare's Comedies Histories and Tragedies, published according to the true original copies in London printed by Isaac Jaggard and Edward Blount in 1623 was sold recently. It is a thick small folio measuring 12¾ inches by 8¼ inches and was bound by F Clark in the style of Roger Payne and in Russia extra gilt. There are thirty six plays in it. A perfect copy is worth $6000. A second folio of Shakespeare printed by Thomas Coates and Robert Allot and sold at the sign of the Black Beare in Paul's Churchyard in 1632 sold for $118 50. It measured 13 inches by 8¾ inches and was bound by W Pratt in red crushed levant morocco with super gilt Harleian gold tooling inside and with gold borders and gilt edges. A fourth folio of Shakespeare is worth $87. It contained seven new plays never before printed. They were "Pericles Prince of Tyre," "The London Prodigal," "History of Thomas Lord Cromwell," "Sir John Oldcastle Lord Cobham," "The Puritan Widow," "A Yorkshire Tragedy" and "The Tragedy of Locrine."

Mr Southeran then told about the finest libraries in this country.

Brayton Ives the ex president of the stock exchange and who lives at 10 East Thirty Fifth street New York has one of the finest if not the finest and most valuable collection of manuscripts and rare books in America. His library is a very large one. His tastes run after the curious, and he has given fabulous prices for some of the books and treasures of missals that adorn his shelves. Among his books is the Guttenberg Bible the first book printed from movable type. There are only twenty one known to exist. This Bible was bought by Hamilton Cole for $8 000. Cole sold it and last year it came into Ives' hands for $15 000. Mr Ives has a Caxton Bible the first English [illegible] and vellum printed missals of Hardouin.

Robert Hoe of printing press fame has spent a fortune on his library. His fancy runs after rich and valuable bindings such as those of Dethon Grolier books of Mme de Pompadour Marie Antoinette Diana of Poitiers Francis I Henry II, history manuscripts on vellum early Bibles black letters and books produced by famous printers. Last year he went to Europe to purchase books. He attended the sale of the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres and made some valuable purchases. At the Teschner sale he spent 40 000 francs and the entire lot of books he purchased came over in one valise. S B Duryea of Brooklyn has been a bibliophilist for twenty five years. He collects autographic manuscripts or the original manuscripts of men like Charles Dickens Charles Lamb Thackeray or of a purely literary character. He also collects ancient books and manuscripts. He attends the public auctions himself but usually buys through an agent. Occasionally he bids for himself. Every one in the sales room knows when he is going to buy. He rubs his nose, stops winking and looking foxy from beneath his spectacles and wears an innocent air.

George Washington Childs has a very fine library. His reference library is one of the best in the country and his collection of manuscripts is one of the finest of their kind in the world. He has the original manuscripts of many of the works of such men as Dickens Thackeray Scott Washington Irving Shelley Byron Charles Lamb Dryden Longfellow and dozens of others of that character.

Giovanni Morosini Jay Gould's former partner is a great collector of mediæval and ancient armor. He has also collected a large library. He has a number of rare books and manuscripts on heraldry.

Jay Gould has a wonderful library. When he purchased the Merritt place at Irvington he bought the library also. It was a very fine one then, but he has added to it very considerably since. Mr Gould is a great student, and after leaving Wall street he goes to his library and studies out the questions of the day from a historical and literary standpoint.

N Q Pope, of Brooklyn, buys a great many rare books. He looks like a keen stock broker rather than a rich man who spends most of his time in buying valuable books to gratify his wife who is the real collector. He is called Pontifus Maximus by his friends. When he is buying he easily gets angry and won't listen to any advice then and will have the book on which he is bidding at any cost. He has a great collection of Shakespeareana, and among them is Daniel's copy worth about $5000. Manuscript of Franklin's work and the like are on his shelves. He is what might be called a cultured bibliophile. He secures illustrated books, books in the best examples of handsome bindings, books from the modern and ancient French binders, and anything of a rare, curious or æsthetic character.

H H Bancroft the historian owns the largest private library in this country at his home in San Francisco. It consists of 60 000 volumes and he values it at $300 000 for which sum he will dispose of it. He has a very fine collection of manuscript in indigenous dialects, manuscripts relating to the early settlement of the Pacific coast, of the Spanish colonies and of the early ecclesiastical mission.

Thomas A Edison the electrician has a very fine collection of scientific works.

T J McKee the lawyer has made a very fine collection of dramatic works. He collects everything relating to the American stage and has a fine collection of engravings on the same subject.

Gen Rush C Hawkins of New York purchases all the early printed works and valuable manuscripts that he thinks authentic and that come in his way. He collected a great number of first prints in Europe to assist him in writing his book on the "First Books in Europe." He sold a number of his treasures recently but only those of which he had duplicates or did not want. Last year he spent six months in Europe adding to his collection.

John J Astor has many curious and old manuscripts in his large collection. He is known well as a bibliomaniac. All his books are bought by [illegible].

Cornelius Vanderbilt has a large collection of illustrated books and specimens of the early binders. George Vanderbilt has been buying books for several years and has collected a very good library and reference library. W H [illegible] has an art collection and a very fine one. Charles W Frederickson has a very valuable collection of the original manuscripts of Charles Lamb, Byron, Shelley, [illegible] and others. He is very fond of Elizabethan manuscripts and everything relating to Shakespeare and his times. He has also a number of the early editions of Shakespeare some of which are very valuable.

A rich collection will shortly be offered for collectors to select from. This now belongs to L Delmonte an old Spanish Cuban. He has the rarest collection of the ordinances and laws of New Spain known to exist. They were printed in the City of Mexico in the sixteenth century. His ancestors collected and the books have increased in value with every generation. In manuscript he has the first laws relating to America compiled in Europe. The Nueva Leyes Order Class V relating to the Spanish colonies in America. His España Americano manuscript is very rare and is dated in the fifteenth century. A quantity of unpublished manuscript relating to the colonization of Florida California, New Mexico and Texas containing instructions to the viceroys in manuscript by Bishop Las Casas the apostle to the Indians, date 1550 and other manuscript from Seville Barcelona and other cities. Mr Gunther a rich bibliomaniac is said to have the only autograph of Shakespeare in the country. He collects antiquities very largely and is now trying to obtain an autograph of Moses.

There are a great many collectors of Swinburne. A great many persons are on the lookout for early editions of his works, which is surprising seeing that he is still alive.

Nearly all the bibliomaniacs belong to the Grolier club. They don't want to keep the knowledge they have about books to themselves. They study and pore over their missals and rare editions and then lecture and talk to their fellow members of the club. Mr Brayton Ives talks well on early books and Mr Hoe on bindings.

"The American collectors are getting more and more educated in their tastes," said Mr Southeran. "They are outgrowing the supply on this side of the water and are constantly sending over commissions to Europe and go themselves to visit the big sales there. The English aristocracy are getting in a bad way just now and are not making the money out of their vast landed estates that they used to and many of them have had to dispose of their libraries. Very often a quantity of valuable books are sent over here for sale. They don't bring such good prices as if they were sold in Europe though collectors here must have unique styles, duplicate copies of engravings that illustrate the book and in half a dozen different stages—signed artists' proofs, engravers' proofs, proofs before letter and all that sort of thing."

Is the fad of collecting books and manuscripts increasing?

"I think so. The good work that the Grolier club is doing and the work of similar societies and with magazines devoted to the exploitation of old books the collecting of private libraries will be more popular than ever."

The following prices were realized at the most important sales of libraries held during the past ten years: The Brinley library $11 448 27; Joseph J Cook $80 904 73; Henry C Murphy $50 278 63; William Menzies $49 880 68; Fulton M Dorman $24 319; Charles Tracy $19 138 01; Charles Fiske Harris $16 610 65; J H V Arnold $16 421 38; Eben Fisker $14 617 56; Alexander Farnum $14 424 75; Gen Rush C Hawkins $13 163 08; Dr David King $12 484 01; Almon W Griswold $12 325 13; S H Remsen $9 064 14; Bartholomew Skaats $8114 42; W C Prescott $7 991 79; Harrison library $7667 84; Charles O Connor $7481 63; S F Olney $6950 98; Senator Matt H Carpenter $6364 09.

SENATE BILL NO 115.

PORTLAND July 2, 1888.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

A recent editorial in the News attacking the Hon Jos Simon for his action in introducing senate bill No 115 in the last session of the legislature does Mr Simon injustice in assuming that his desire was to put fees into the pockets of certain officers. I do not feel called upon to do more than state the facts which created the introduction of that bill. Our tax laws as they stood prior to the last session of the legislature provided that the sheriff's tax deed should be conclusive evidence of the regularity of tax sales proceedings and that such deeds could only be avoided by showing that the tax had actually been paid, that the property was not liable to taxation or that some fraud had been perpetrated in the matter. Under this law a non resident or resident's property might be assessed to the wrong person advertised under an incorrect name and sold on a faulty description and if the deed was only made with due care the law came in with its conclusive presumptions of regularity in the face of the patent facts and deprived the owner of his property. Some glaring cases of injustice in the shape of attempts to confiscate property without notice by means of tax sales were pending in our courts and Mr Simon's attention was called to them and a request was made that some action be taken by the coming legislature to remedy what had become a glaring evil and prolific source of oppression. Mr Simon's attention was called to the fact that in several of the states it was provided that the law officer of the state should bring suit upon a delinquent tax and obtain judgment in the ordinary way therefor. The law has been found to work well in practice. True it was somewhat expensive to the delinquent and to that extent it stimulated him not to become a delinquent but it gave him his day in court. His property could not be assessed with a description so faulty that no one would recognize it, advertised under another name and sold without his knowing it. He must have notice.

Mr Simon by request caused a copy of the California law to be made and introduced it and after some amendments reducing the expense it passed the senate with only one dissenting vote. It failed in the house perhaps because the sheriffs looked unfavorably upon it, perhaps because a house bill was already pending, which removed some of the objectionable features of the old law, which house bill was duly passed and became a law. It is not worth while now to go into a discussion of the merits of such a law as S B No 115. Such laws are in force in several of the states. The expense of their enforcement is borne by the delinquent taxpayer in the end. I prefer the house bill as passed, myself but under the circumstances of the introduction of that senate bill, and the glaring wrongs of the old system which it was intended to remedy, it is not fair or just to Mr Simon to attribute to him the motives suggested by the editorial alluded to.

MARGARET OF ORLEANS.

A Statue Erected to One Who Was Only a Working Woman.

During War, Pestilence and Famine, a Noble Soul That had No Thought but of Others' Suffering

New York Sun

"I wonder if it idealizes her?"

We stand beside the statue of this famous woman Margaret of New Orleans and after the manner of strangers conjecture on what we for the first time see.

"Not at all," a voice answers in the soft southern tongue. "It looks just like her."

"Ah thank you. You live here?"

"I was born here this is my home."

"You were here during the war the yellow fever and everything? and was Ben Butler so dreadful? and have you seen Cable?"

A nod answers each one of my young companion's impetuous queries.

"How delightful," concludes my friend but the lady shakes her head and taps her fan lightly on the girl's soft cheek and says musingly: "It did not seem as if I would live through it but I have and now comes one who calls my trials delightful. How cruel!"

"Ah pardon. But I was thinking of that charming man who wrote the delicious Mme Delphine. I was thinking how perfectly lovely it must be to live here and know him—and then to live in a city that has had such a history it is so romantic. And can you tell us anything about Margaret?"

"This little space—Margaret place—is called a pleasant spot to rest in."

With this invitation given more in looks than in words we seat ourselves near our new acquaintance on the settees in the little park. The perfume of March overhangs the city; we forget in its deliciousness the signs of decay that in portions of that quaint old town impart a pensive melancholy to its beauty. Nearby us in the green grass is a pool set about with a low border of cement, a miniature fort with its bristling thorn guns out and its blossom flags flying from the ramparts which are guarding with such fierceness only a lazy fleet of water lilies under the shade of which there is a whirl of goldfish. A stone footbridge crosses the pool and spans the river of cacti. It is a very odd and tasteful device this pool and the little park in which it is placed is unique in its way. There is nothing overdone neither neglected. It is a well kept refreshing simple setting for the statue itself.

"She was a working woman—a servant here. When I first remember her she was living near here and she was taking care of the cows in a stable that stood almost on the very spot where her statue stands now. She was working then for the sisters of the asylum. She fed and milked their cows and sold milk in a cart about the city. She was a strange looking person—remarkable in her appearance. I think now as I recall her she had a broad forehead, serious eyes, a pleasant broad smile, a rather short stout figure. I do not suppose she ever in her life wore any dress better than a Guinea blue calico; she always wore heavy shoes and a black straw bonnet trimmed with a neat band of black over the top. From my residence I could see her many times a day while she was at her stable work or coming back and forth with her milk cans."

"What was her name?" "Her name was Margaret Haughery; she had been married and at that time was a widow. Her husband and little child died just after she came to New Orleans, so we learned after she became famous. She was alone and poor in a strange country and went to work in the stables for a living. Somehow everyone liked Margaret; her smile was sweet and her word shrewd. The children called her Margaret and she knew their names and answered their salutations along the street as she drove by in the milk cart.

"After some years Margaret had saved enough to buy a bit of ground that had on it a small bakery. The place was sold for a trifle but now Margaret was in royal trim, a land owner and a manufacturer for she opened the shop and began bread and pie making for the neighbors. Presently there was a large bakery built, soon bread carts were running over the city bearing the words 'Margaret's Bakery.' It became the fashion to buy at Margaret's place. During war pestilence and disaster Margaret's fires were never out and the delicious rolls kept up their weight and quality no matter what else in life failed. Then she began running her free bread carts during the fever panic. No one went hungry who was within sound of her cart wheels. From that time on no one need go hungry in New Orleans; those too poor to buy were given a loaf fresh and white as the best and it was given heartily with a 'God bring thee better times.' There was no distinction in Margaret's favors. She gave to white and black, of any church or none. 'Are you hungry?' that is all that was necessary. 'Here is the bread take it with God's blessing.' There have been in this city dread days which seemed as if God and everybody had failed us but Margaret, days when she almost literally fed the city. During the yellow fever panic Margaret began her noble work of taking the children from the homes of death and putting them into a house under good care supporting them herself in every particular. Soon the one asylum grew into many, the dozens of her little charges were numbered by hundreds—and at the time of her death thousands. At the gate of every orphan asylum in the city Margaret's bread cart with its smoking rolls was seen daily; at every charitable institution whatsoever she took the privilege of giving her bread freely and Margaret's name headed the list for every charity. Our grand charity hospital, one of the most famous in the world, was largely the gift of Margaret. You must visit that hospital. It will make you better all your life for having seen it. Right through the trees there at the right, do you see that magnificent building with its four galleries running around the first four stories of the house? Its gate tells in golden letters that this is a children's home given by Margaret where to the end of time orphans will be cared for and educated by her bequests. Many of our cemeteries contain in form of handsome tombs Margaret's simple yet munificent thoughtfulness. Here you know all are buried above ground in crypts or ovens of masonry and when you visit our cemeteries as strangers always do, for there are no burial places like these in America—you will see stone tombs (containing one, two or four dozen bodies maybe) inscribed 'Given to the Little Sisters of the Poor by Margaret.' 'The Strangers' tomb given by Margaret.' I suppose Margaret spent more money for the city than the richest man in the history of the state and of the sympathy and discernment of the needs of the poor the half could never be told. She spent nothing on herself. A clean blue calico, stout shoes, a black straw bonnet, a knitted jacket or shoulder shawl, an iron bedstead in a room without even a rocking chair and overlooking the bake shop. She had no time to enjoy luxuries even had she possessed them. As long as there was a weeping child or a friendless woman in the city what time had she to fold her arms in a rocking chair. While there were unburied coffinless forms could she adorn her home of the living? And so it happened that to the end of life Margaret spent neither time nor money on herself. She forgot there was such a mortal Margaret.

"And when one day the news went around that Margaret was dead the great city rose and put on mourning: the business houses were closed, all the employments of the city stood still. The day of the burial thousands of her little orphans followed her bier as mourners; every church sent delegation of honor bearers; the public school children joined in the throng; all the bells were draped along the line of march; all the bells in the city tolled; civil and military joined in the procession with ecclesiastics. There never was here a funeral like Margaret's.

"Afterward it was found that her possessions had been so disposed that had death come at any moment the affairs of this life were well and intelligently wound up. There were no personal effects of value but even her few garments she left to the poor and with the proceeds of her wise investments her charities are royally endowed.

"This statue is the gift of the city to show in this public way the esteem in which she is held. It is very like Margaret. The motherly figure, seated with one arm encircling a standing child at her side, the untrimmed dress, coarse shoes, the little crochetted shawl about her shoulders are homely, but who would change them for finer clothing? The smooth hair, with its old-fashioned French parting; the strong chin the pleasant mouth, the serious eyes—is there not something fascinating in the contradictions of the face?

"Did you ever see such a head on a woman's shoulders? Massive, wonderful. That is the head of a statesman or a financier while its mouth with its pleasant smile telling of the tact and natural suavity of Margaret's character proclaim the elements of a born diplomat. Yet look again at the broad massive brow, and see the earnest loving eye that speaks of a true womanhood. Look once more at the coarse garments and you will see that poverty added her load to the ordinary burden of womanhood while ignorance, bereavement, affliction, loneliness join hands with poverty against this soul. But the passive brow conquered, the untaught brain triumphed under the leadership of the sad gentle eye, gave to the suffering what might, had it been a man born in other circumstances, have been the gain of nations and the glitter of the trappings of a diplomat.

"When I consider what Margaret did for one city under such desperate disadvantage, I wonder what she could have done for the world if all the environments had been right. I was thinking of that as I looked in passing for the hundredth time, at the strong fascinating face this morning when your question met my ear.

"Yes it looks like her and there will never be another marble like it to the end of time. She is a grand character—tender strong original pitiful helpful wise."

A Tribute to America

Roscoe Conkling

Never before was I so proud of my country and my countrymen and so content with them as when I was in Europe. I was amazed to find so little to envy or to wish to see transplanted to our land. Great Britain has of course the accumulated results of many generations. She has had centuries of parliaments and of power. She has taken tribute from half the world and entailed estates have piled up colossal wealth individual family and aggregate. But in civilization in liberty and general intelligence in actual progress, above all in promise of the future, America young as she is, need not shrink from comparison.

What is more attractive than a pretty face with a fresh, bright complexion? For it use Pozzoni's Powder.

AMERICAN SHIPBUILD

Not Wholly a Thing of the Past—Reasons for the Decline.

W. H. Webb's Plan to Revive a Decaying Industry and Restore the American Flag to the Sea.

One of the important measures which will appear in the volume of the New York session laws of 1888, and which, strange enough, has passed almost without notice on the part of the press, is an assembly bill entitled an act to incorporate the Webb Academy and Home for Shipbuilders. This bill has passed the lower house and is pending in the senate.

To carry out the design contemplated by the measure, Mr. William Henry Webb, who is a retired shipbuilder of large means, who carried on an extensive business in this city from 1840 to 1870, has purchased thirteen and a half acres of ground at Fordham Heights. The site is delightfully situated on high ground, with a commanding view of the valley of the Harlem and also of the Palisades, and is bounded by the Harlem river and Sedgwick avenue and the old Fordham landing road. On this magnificent location the liberal projector of the academy for shipbuilders intends to erect as soon as possible, buildings for the accommodation of the institution, which will afford practical and theoretical instruction in the arts of draughting and planning ships, both of wood and iron material.

THE PLAN OF EDUCATION.

"Experience taught me the great difficulties in the way of acquiring a knowledge of shipbuilding without the institution which I contemplate establishing," said Mr. Webb in answer to an inquiry. "I determined therefore to make it possible for a young man to master the art easily and within a reasonable time. In the old fashioned way seven years were required, but with the academy this can be accomplished in two or three years. I wish to create an institution where a student cannot only be educated but also be maintained during the period of his study."

Many persons think that American shipbuilding is a thing of the past, but this is a mistake. Many vessels are still built in the United States, though most of the new bottoms are employed in the coasting trade.

SUBSIDIES ADVOCATED.

"The greater cost of construction in the United States, as compared with Great Britain, I take to be the cause of the decline which all deplore. I am of the opinion that our government ought to follow the example of Great Britain, France and Italy, and offer subsidies to American shipowners. The adoption of this policy by other nations compels the United States to take a similar course, in order to place our shipwrights on the same plane of advantage with their foreign competitors."

"Although shipbuilding has gone out of New York, it survives in other states, and the Fordam Heights institution is designed to meet the needs of the entire country. Thorough instruction will be given in all branches of shipbuilding, and only the shipyard will be lacking to afford the student the benefit that can be derived from practical experience."

THE PROMOTERS OF THE PLAN.

The president (or vice-president) of the New York chamber of commerce; a member of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of the City of New York, to be selected by that organization; a professor of applied mathematical science in Columbia College, to be appointed by the trustees thereof; the president (or vice-president) of the Society of the New York Hospital; Richard Poillon, Henry Steers, Isaac Reed, Charles H. Cramp, Wm. Henry Webb, Thomas F. Rowland, and Stevenson Towle; provided, nevertheless, that the member of the Mechanics and Tradesmen's Society is selected independent of the individual trustees, are designated in the act as a body politic and corporate of the prospective Academy and Home for Shipbuilders.

In Mr. Webb's opinion, the decline of American shipbuilding has been caused by the want of the facilities of proper technical instruction in the art, and he thinks that the coming academy will be an important factor in the revival of a well-nigh defunct industry. GEORGE J. CLARK.

A Good Appetite

Is essential to good health; and at this season it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, and the weakening effect of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestion, and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to take it.

"I had been troubled with pimples on my face and limbs, loss of sleep and appetite, and in fact was generally run down. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla the pimples disappeared, my appetite was restored, and I feel better in every respect." P. DAVIS, corner 10th and Buttonwood Sts., Philadelphia.

"I must say Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever used. Last spring I had no appetite, and the least work I did fatigued me ever so much. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon I felt as if I could do as much in a day as I had formerly done in a week. My appetite is voracious." MRS. M. V. [illegible], Atlantic City, N. J.

OREGON [illegible] NAVIGATION [illegible] Meeting [illegible] [illegible] before the meeting [illegible] [illegible]. T. A. WILLIS, [illegible]

THE INSANE AND THEIR CARE.

PORTLAND, May 31.—To the Editor of THE OREGONIAN:

[illegible] full, free and fair discussion of this subject can not but result in good, hence the publication, unavoidably delayed till now, by way of reply to the communication of Dr. Josephi in your issue of the 17th inst. While a large portion of this article was wide of the mark, there were yet some points of the mark upon which a little light may be thrown with advantage.

Dr. Josephi evidently found the shoe to fit, and the foot very closely, judging from the temper in which he writes throughout the greater part of a column of cant about "allopathy" and "pathys" in general, and a labored effort to detract from the merits of homeopathy, and to announce that he is not a homeopathist. I cheerfully allow him the "allopathist," or his preferred title of "regular," or "irregular," if he chooses—but what has this to do with the case of the insane as discussed in the paper read by the writer?

Great pains were taken to show that certain methods of treatment were not the distinctive methods of homeopathists. To my knowledge the history of homeopathy shows they were, least of all in the article to which the doctor professed to reply. The question is not one of originality, but of results of present methods. So this part of the article will be dismissed at once as interesting, and in the main historically true, but irrelevant.

There is one thing, however, which homeopathy proudly claims as new in the treatment of the insane, namely, therapeutics, or medicinal treatment, and to this does she owe a large per cent. of the cures reported under her care. This Dr. Josephi [illegible] does not deny, but tries hard to so distort the facts and figures as to cover it up.

It is not claimed that homeopathists are superior to all others in matters of hygiene, sanitation and mental and moral methods. [illegible] to these they owe all their success, [illegible] in the insane asylums thus far placed under homeopathic control these are utilized to the fullest extent. Indeed, homeopathy is noted for the advancement she has made [illegible] lines, and her readiness to adopt improved methods. Recognizing the powerful influences exerted by drugs in small doses, it follows by way of sequence that it would [illegible] observe and correct the many influences, small though they might appear, which would interfere with their proper effect. Homeopathy may be said to be finer [illegible] and more observant of minute yet very important details than is her coarser, "heroic" sister, and more ready to adopt all adjutants, while she also possesses superior methods of medicinal treatment.

Right here it may be well for me to answer the charge that I was superficial in my examination, not having taken time to look into the [illegible] with sufficient care, and that I was "[illegible] ignorant" of the buildings used [illegible], etc., etc., to which my only reply is: I have been personally cognizant of the Oregon insane asylum and its management for a great many years. I have often visited both the old and also the new buildings, the last time only a week previous to the writing of my first paper on this subject, when I examined both the buildings and their methods with care. I have also visited a large number of the principal asylums of the Eastern and Middle States, some of private hospitals, "retreats," and "homes" as well as nearly all the largest hospitals of the United States, all of which I have examined carefully. For ten years past I have given special attention to these things, and I know whereof I speak when I say (and I repeat it with emphasis) that the Oregon asylum is inferior to many others in construction and adaptability, and that the results obtained are not what they should be, nor equal to those found in many places, particularly where they are under the control and methods of homeopathy—for there is such a thing as homeopathy, Dr. Josephi to the contrary notwithstanding. The Oregon asylum, being a new building, should have been modern in construction. It is not an "unjust slur upon the people of the whole state" to state that it is not so, for the responsibility rests upon the few most intimately connected with the work. The [illegible] of the people was upon the part of those who, ignorantly, I trust, put the people's money into improper buildings." This statement was made: That in cleanliness, etc., it was "equal to most asylums and surpassed by but few in the civilized world." Is it a building accommodating over 400 patients, having in it only one ordinary sized family bath tub, can safely be said to be "equal to most asylums?" I hope not! One bath tub to a family of over 400! I certainly hope he is right, at least in this respect, when he says it is "surpassed by but few in the civilized world." A modern asylum would also have an infirmary, where the very sick might have necessary quiet and care; also a place apart for those afflicted with contagious diseases. These are but examples among many showing the Oregon asylum inferior.

[illegible] there can be no question as [illegible] indicate. For many years this [illegible] before the public, the figures [illegible] the closest scrutiny of individuals, [illegible] committees and legislative [illegible], and so convincing have they [illegible] have shown their belief [illegible] by appropriating millions of [illegible] in the aggregate to aid in giving [illegible] treatment to the insane.

The figures given in my first paper, showing the percentage of deaths and recoveries [illegible] to the Middletown asylum were [illegible], though an effort was made by [illegible] those "improved" and "re-[illegible]" to make a more favorable showing [illegible] Oregon asylum. But all this was [illegible] by first admitting that, owing to the [illegible] condition of the Oregon asylum, [illegible] discharged sooner than they should [illegible] classed as "improved." Dr. [illegible] says: "The test of recovery from [illegible] is a purely arbitrary one, based [illegible] standard set up by each individual superintendent;" yet he has no sooner said [illegible] he proceeds at once to give statistics [illegible] based upon his own "arbitrary" and "individual standard." In all [illegible] he should accord to others the right [illegible] enjoys. Now, a few statistics, for [illegible] must depend to show the [illegible] of different methods of treatment. We will also see who it is that has [illegible] "superficial" in the examination of this [illegible].

Dr. Josephi wisely says he does not wish [illegible] into a discussion on the relative [illegible] "allopathy and homeopathy," for [illegible] has examined the subject critically, he [illegible] that he cannot show results of [illegible] treatment of the insane which [illegible] comparable with those obtained by homeopathy.

Comparing the figures of the Oregon and the Middletown, N. Y., asylum, Dr. Josephi gives these figures:

	Per cent. deaths on No. Treated.	Per cent. cured on No. Discharged.
Oregon	6.3	47
Middletown	9.0	30

[illegible] numbers referring to Middletown [illegible]. The 6.3 per cent. should be 4.2 [illegible] and the 47 per cent. should be 50.60 [illegible]. The per cent. of deaths is stated [illegible] one-third larger than it should be, [illegible] per cent. cured, 3.66 per cent., too [illegible]. But even with his figures incorrect and distorted in his favor as they are, the [illegible] is greatly in favor of the Middletown asylum.

[illegible] is also made over the unusually large number reported "recovered" at [illegible], and it is said that "no doubt [illegible] cases classified as 'recovered' in their [illegible] would in many asylums be placed [illegible] head of 'improved.'" With all [illegible] respect to Dr. Josephi's experience and [illegible] ability, I would ask if he, with [illegible] experience as superintendent [illegible] any more capable of deciding [illegible] this point than is Dr. Talcott, who has [illegible] superintendent of the Middletown asylum [illegible] many years (ten years or more, I [illegible]) and who is an acknowledged expert [illegible] insanity, and one of the leading alienists in the United States? And more than [illegible] work and results have for [illegible] subject to the closest possible [illegible] by his opponents, [illegible] legislature of his own and adjoining [illegible] as well have shown their confidence [illegible] homeopathic methods of [illegible] by constantly increasing appropriations [illegible] support of the insane. Within the [illegible] the Massachusetts legislature has appropriated nearly half a million [illegible] a homeopathic insane asylum, [illegible] Dr. N. Emmons Paine, formerly [illegible] assistant at Middletown, in [illegible] as if they doubted [illegible]

[illegible] stress is laid upon the fact [illegible] in the Oregon asylum [illegible] for many years, and on this account have less chance for recovery. The statement as to their diminished chances for recovery is true, but had Dr. Josephi been less "superficial" in his examination of the Middletown reports, he would have discovered that, though Oregon had a slightly smaller number admitted, the duration of whose insanity had been less than six months, the Middletown asylum, on the other hand, had in it more than three times as many as the Oregon asylum had who had been insane for periods varying from one to five years; also an equal number who had been insane for periods varying from five to twenty years, and whose chances for recovery, as Dr. Josephi acknowledges, are accordingly small. That so many long-standing cases recovered at Middletown is greatly to the credit of the treatment received. I ask the candid reader to consider these and other facts and decide for himself who it is that has been "superficial" in the examination of this question.

It was not my original intention to make any special attack upon the Oregon insane asylum or its management further than to show that their methods of treatment were not the most successful, and also to urge the erection in the future of more suitable buildings, and the removal of the insane from political hands. I will say frankly that the Oregon asylum has shown better results than many similar state institutions, and has been quite free from abuses common to some. But there is still room for great improvement. With this I shall for the present drop the matter so far as it is concerned, and confine myself to the real point at issue, namely, the comparative results of different methods of treatment, and the suggestion of improved surroundings already successfully adopted elsewhere. Please note that in this, as in my former paper, no originality is even claimed. I simply state what is done elsewhere, and what should be done here to secure highest success in the treatment of this unfortunate class. That comparisons may be fair I select the state of New York, where there are four state asylums, which may be said to be similarly situated, and in all respects under like conditions, except that the Middletown asylum has the cheaper building, and has until recently received a smaller share of appropriations, and so labored at a disadvantage.

From the New York Medical Times, May, 1888, I take the following:

"Summary of five years ending September 30, 1887—

UTICA, BUFFALO AND POUGHKEEPSIE ASYLUMS—(OLD SCHOOL).

Percentage of deaths on whole number treated	6.34
Percentage of recoveries on whole numbe discharged	27.24

MIDDLETOWN ASYLUM—(HOMEOPATHIC).

Percentage of deaths on whole number treated	4.26
Percentage of recoveries on whole number discharged	49.37

Summary of year ending September 30, 1887:

UTICA, BUFFALO AND POUGHKEEPSIE ASYLUMS—(OLD SCHOOL.)

Per cent. deaths on whole number treated	6.42
Per cent. recoveries on whole number discharged	27.01

MIDDLETOWN ASYLUM (HOMEOPATHIC.)

Per cent. deaths on whole number treated	3.42
Per cent. recoveries on whole number discharged	51.33

I also have before me the reports of twenty-eight state asylums for 1887. To save space I simply give the average results.

The average per cent. of cures are based upon the total number cases treated.

	Pr. ct. cured.
Twenty-eight allopathic asylums	.09
New York homeopathic (Middletown)	.20

"No comments are needed. The facts speak for themselves." These statistics are reliable and positive evidence of the superiority of treatment.

That such remarkable and heretofore unheard of results have been obtained through strictly homeopathic treatment is unquestioned. In speaking of this, the superintendent of the Middletown asylum says: "This institution was organized for the express purpose of testing the efficacy of homeopathic medicines in the treatment of the insane. The law requires, and the community expects, that we shall make this trial fairly and honestly, and we shall comply with statutory requirement and public expectation. The law of similars is, and has been since the asylum was opened, rigidly applied, so far as we are able to discover and apply it, in the treatment of the insane under our charge.

"After ten years' experience we are able to state that the experiment of treating the insane homeopathically has been such as to justify its continuance.

"In the presence of his enemies Galileo said: 'The world does move!' And in the presence of modern skeptics we may say: These homeopathic remedies which we use do act favorably and effectually in the cure of physical disease, and consequent mental disorders."

That it may be understood how completely this method is used, I will add that neither opiates nor anodynes of any description were used, even with the violently insane, as is the almost universal custom among the "old school." Statistics, and general proof of the great efficacy of homeopathic treatment of the insane might be multiplied indefinitely, but it is unnecessary.

Leaving the present Oregon asylum and its conduct entirely aside, justice demands that the state should place a portion, at least those who wish it, under this method of treatment, and unless "old school" results are improved upon, all should be given over to the new and better methods.

There are already enough insane in our asylum to fill both the present building and the new wing still uncompleted. Our rapidly increasing population, and with it the still more rapidly increasing numbers of insane people, will make it necessary that new buildings be soon erected. The duty of the state in this matter is plain. The coming legislature should investigate the whole subject of the insane and their care, revise our present laws, both as to commitment of the insane to asylums, and as to management, taking their entire care out of the hands of politics and politicians. New buildings to be erected should be modern in plan, adapted to the care of the insane upon more successful and humane methods. While farm-land is yet cheaply bought, ground should be obtained for use in what is called the "Colony Plan," as already in use in Michigan. This plan contemplates the establishment of colonies of chronic and quiet patients in healthy farming localities near the institution by which it is to be managed, and from which it receives patients and derives supplies. It would also be entirely practical for the state, in time, to have what is already common in England and Scotland, "summer resorts" at the seaside and in the mountains, where many can enjoy and be benefited by a change of scene and air, so beneficial to sick bodies and disordered minds. The state should at once begin to plan in these and other ways for our insane wards. OSMON ROYAL, M. D.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by J. Fred Clark & Sons, real estate agents:

Although there were but four business days in the past week the transactions recorded numbered sixty, amounting to $298,639 34.

The corresponding weeks of the preceding years showed in

	Deeds.	Amount.
1886	28	$35,142 70
1887	42	97,803 25

The special feature of the week was the sale of the Holladay addition properties, belonging to the late Ben Holladay's estate, for $200,000. It was a grand buy. The lucky purchasers cannot fail to realize an enormous profit. There are not many individuals who have the money who have also the pluck to put $200,000 in a lump sum into a number of wild blocks of prospective residence land. This fact afforded Messrs. Bennett and Larrabee an opportunity of which they gladly availed themselves. They had the pluck, they had the money, they bought, and bought for little, if anything, over one-half the amount at which the property might be considered a fair speculation. Its magnitude was all in their favor, and their pluck will certainly be amply rewarded. The remaining fifty-nine transactions were scattering, averaging a little under $1700 each. Couch makes a little better proportionate showing this week than of late. Caruthers is not represented. East Portland, independent of the Holladay sale, heads the list. When the election is over there are fair reasons for believing that increased activity will be witnessed.

The following table shows for the past week:

DISTRIBUTION OF DEEDS.

	Deeds.	Amount.
Country and suburban	17	$ 26,244 34
City proper and westward	2	6,750 00
Couch and northward	7	17,650 00
East Portland	18	236,460 00
Albina	16	10,635 00
Cemetery	1	200 00
Total deeds of transfer	60	$298,639 34
Mortgages	22	52,872 00
Releases	10	17,059 00

It is beyond question that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral heads the list of remedies for diseases of the throat and lungs.

ST. JACOBS OIL

RHEUMATISM.

Corroborative and Conclusive Testimony.

Lowell, Mass., July 9, 1887.

Gentlemen:—Mr. Lewis Dennis has just called upon me, and informs me that the boy Orin Robinson, who was a poor cripple on crutches, and was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in 1881; the cure has remained permanent. The young man has been and is now at work at manual labor; the case certainly proves the efficacy of St. Jacobs Oil.

★ Every Symptom Gone. ★

Probably there is no disease which inflicts so much continuous pain as Rheumatism. When it becomes chronic there are few more difficult to affect a cure. Over no single complaint has Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy won more brilliant victories than Rheumatism. By its use the agonized patient can once more use his limbs, and is freed from the shackles that have bound him, perhaps for years. Mr. Frank Strait, a well known merchant of New Hampton, N. Y., says: "I suffered tortures with

SCIATIC RHEUMATISM.

My case was a very bad one, and none of the means taken gave me relief. I used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and am entirely rid of every symptom of my trouble. Only three bottles brought about this wonderful result. It has built me up and been of great benefit in other ways. I heartily recommend it to other sufferers."

Horrible Inheritance

The transmission of the fearful effects of contagious blood poison is certainly the most horrible inheritance which any man can leave to his innocent posterity. The curse contained in the Scriptural declaration: "The sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation," can be certainly mitigated, and in the majority of cases, prevented, by the use of the antidote to the contagious blood poison which Nature herself furnishes, and which is to be found in its native purity and infallible efficacy in the remedy known all over the world as Swift's Specific—commonly called "S. S. S." As illustrative of this fact we give the following evidence—they are test cases, taken at random from hundreds of others of similar character:

Mr. J. H. Brown, of Hornellsville, N. Y., writes: Three years I suffered with this horrible disease. Swift's Specific cured me completely.

Prof. Edwin Baar, 238 E. Twenty-second street, New York, writes: Swift's Specific cured me of a fearful case of Blood Poison.

Dr. R. F. Wingfield, of the Soldier's Home, Richmond, Va., writes: Swift's Specific cured me of a severe case of Blood Poison.

D. W. K. Briggs, Brooklyn, N. Y.: I was a perfect wreck from Blood Poison. Specific restored health and hope, and I am well today.

C. W. Laughill, Savannah, Ga.: I have suffered a long time with Blood Poison. I tried Swift's Specific and am now a perfectly well man.

A. W. Buell, of Power's Hotel, Rochester, N. Y., writes: It is the best blood remedy on earth. I cured myself with it. I recommended it to a friend of mine, a well know business man, and it made him well.

Mr. F. L. Stanton, editor of the Smithville, Ga., News, writes that a friend of his was afflicted with a severe case of Blood Poison, and that two bottles of S. S. S. effected a complete cure. He tried every other remedy in vain.

Mr. J. R. Kellogg, Stamford, Conn., writes: December 16, 1887: Your S. S. S. is doing for me what ought to have been done long ago. It has done me more good in one week than all the medicines I have ever taken. Would I had gotten it before! But "all's well that ends well." It will make a new man of me, and I thank God that I have found it at last!

[illegible]S Wonderful GERMAN Invigorator.

THE OLDEST, GREATEST AND BEST REMEDY for the cure of Nervous and Physical Debility, Vital Exhaustion, Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, Failing Memory, and Relaxed and Enfeebled Condition of the Genito-Urinary Organs.

It speedily cures Impotence, Early Decay, Loss of Vigor, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, and all the real effects of youthful follies and abuse, or EXCESSES OF MATURITY.

It permanently prevents all unnatural loss from the system, as thousands can attest who have used the Remedy in the past quarter of a century which it has been before the public.

It is indeed a wonderful remedy—toning the nerves, strengthening the muscles, checking the waste, invigorating the whole system, and restoring the afflicted to HEALTH and HAPPINESS.

The reason so many cannot be cured of Weakness and the above diseases is owing to complication called PROSTATORRHEA with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment.

DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2, with one peculiar special treatment, is the only possible cure for PROSTATORRHEA. By it MANHOOD is restored and the hand of time moved back from age to youth.

Price of either Invigorator, $2. Case of six bottles, $10. Sent to any address covered securely from observation.

Dr. Liebig & Co. treat successfully by Homeopathy every form of SPECIAL, PRIVATE or CHRONIC DISEASES without mercury or nauseous drugs. If vitality is drained from the body, numerous diseases follow that baffle ordinary medical treatment. If allowed to continue, the unnatural loss causes Consumption, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Insanity, etc. Cures guaranteed. Diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs, kidneys, liver and bladder specially treated. DISEASES OF WOMEN SPEEDILY CURED.

Qualified and Responsible.—Dr. Liebig & Co., from Europe, are regular college educated physicians, and are now in their nineteenth year of special practice.

If pimples appear on the face and body, if you become listless and easily tired and exhausted, look out for the complication with Seminal Weakness, discovered at the LIEBIG DISPENSARY, known as Prostatorrhea. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication, Prostatorrhea.

Portland and East Portland Won the Ball Games Yesterday.

Spirited Contest at Riverside—How the Willamettes Walloped the Browns—Details of Both Games.

After playing carelessly for two innings, the Willamettes settled down to work in the third inning, yesterday, and gave the Seattle Browns a thorough walloping It should have been a complete Waterloo for the visitors, and but for unfortunate wild throwing in the first inning it would have resulted so

It was a bad day for baseball, but notwithstanding this a large crowd attended the game Clouds threatened rain all morning and an hour previous to the time set for the sport to begin there was a sharp rainfall lasting half an hour Then the sky partially cleared up, and the doubting ones hurried to Clinton & McCoy's park in the hope of seeing a good game, and they were well repaid for their attendance It was a fairly good game and most stubbornly contested from beginning to end The visitors went in with a determination to win the laurels they lost Saturday, and the East Portlanders were equally determined to scoop in everything and lose nothing Prospects were quite bright for the Puget sounders when they retired from the bat with three runs to their credit in the first inning, but that was all they made In the third inning their east side opponents piled up five runs, and the game was theirs from that time on. Tom Parrott, the Willamettes' favorite, occupied the box for that team, and was just as effective as ever At first Turnbull did not hold his delivery well, but he soon settled down to business and it was a case of clockwork with the battery Coffman was in the box for the visitors the first four innings, and Booth, who pitched Saturday, for the remainder of the game. Neither was very effective, and both were hit freely and opportunely.

When Umpire Charles D Ford called game at 3.30 a mist was falling and it continued to fall almost incessantly during the game. The players managed to keep warm by clapping hands, and there was but little complaint from them or the crowd

The game opened with the visitors at the bat. Corfee struck out but made two bases on Turnbull's miss of the third strike Dickey fanned the ethereal and Corfee advanced to third Coffman lined the ball down to Cook who threw wildly to the home plate in a vain endeavor to catch Corfee Wild throws by Turnbull and McCarthy permitted Coffman to reach third and Stevens' hit brought him home Stevens scored on Kerns' wild throw Bagley and Jacobs closed the inning by striking out. For East Portland Buchtel hit a slow one to Jacobs and reached first on Jacobs's fumble. That's all the progress he made for a quick throw from Coffman sent him back to the bench. Jiggs Parrott hit to Coffman and was out at first. Cheveront nailed Kerns' foul fly.

The Willamettes were in better shape in the second inning and played with more uniformity. Turnbull missed Booth's last strike but recaptured the ball quickly and sent it to G Parrott who dropped it. Then Kenney hit short to Tom Parrot who threw Booth out at second, Kenney reached first in time to avoid a double play, Cheveront hit to Cook who threw him out at second This made two sacrifice hits in one inning and the visitors felt glum In trying to make a double play on Cheveront Bailey threw wild and the Seattles' catcher got to third where he stayed, for a moment later Corfee went out, Jiggs Parrott to G Parrot It was a pretty throw for Jiggs and he deserves credit for it It was an unsatisfactory half for the Willamettes McCarthy and G Parrott were retired at first and Cook after making a pretty single hit to center field, was sacrificed at second.

The Seattles were quickly disposed of in the third inning Dickey and Stevens striking out, Coffman sent up a fly that "Jiggs" Parrott attended to It was in this inning that East Portland won the game. Tom Parrott began the fun by a hit to Dickey whose throw Kenny fumbled Tom stole second neatly made third on Cheveront's error, while Turnbull's safe hit enabled him to score the first run for the Willamettes Great applause and cheers greeted him as he crossed the plate While Turnbull was standing on first contemplating how he was going to make the circuit of the bags Bailey lifted a sky scraper down towards the center field fence and crossed the plate on Cheveront's passed ball That made three runs tieing the score Then Buchtel found Coffman for a safe hit, which struck behind the plate and rolled in front of it just far enough to be a fair ball, and Dickey dropped "Jigg" Parrott's balloon fly A combination of errors allowed both to score after which Kerns McCarthy and Cook fanned out in one, two, three order

The Browns did nothing in the fourth inning Bagley and Jacobs struck out and Booth was retired, Buchtel to G Parrott. A base hit by Bailey and errors by Stevens, Booth and Bagley allowed G Parrott to make the Willamettes sixth run

In the fifth Kenney and Cheveront were the victims of Parrott's curves Corfee's foul fly was taken in out of the wet by G Parrott Booth took the box for the visitors this inning and McCarthy welcomed the new pitcher by finding his delivery for a safe hit. He stole second and tried to reach third the same way but Cheveront got the ball there before him and he returned to the bench Cook flied out to Bagley and G Parrott struck out

In the Sixth Dickey was the victim of Tom Parrott and Turnbull. Coffman then made a safe hit. Stevens got a short one to Tom Parrott, who threw Coffman out at second Bagley spoiled what little chance the visitors had of scoring by going out Tom Parrott to Geo Parrott The Willamettes did nothing in the batting line Tom Parrott and Turnbull struck out Stevens fumbled Bailey's liner who, aided by a passed ball, got to second, where he was left by Buchtel going out on a foul fly to Cheveront

But a few moments were required to retire the visitors in the seventh Jacobs and Kenney struck out, and Booth raised a foul fly which Turnbull gathered in For the Willamettes Jiggs Parrott hit safely stole second and crossed the home plate on Corfee's muff of Cook's fly Kerns flew out to Stevens, McCarthy to Bagley and G. Parrott to Corffee, leaving Cook on second Cheveront the first Seattlite, to the bat in the eighth, struck out Corfee raised a balloon fly, which G Parrott captured Then Dickey drove the ball into right field, and attempted to make the circuit of the bags. He was thrown out beautifully at third by Jiggs Parrott and Bailey, and his visions of a run and approving applause and cheers were dispelled like chaff before the wind A fumble by Stevens, and Buchtel's safe hit let Bailey score for the Willametties, after Tom Parrott had been thrown out at first and Turnbull had struck out Kerns went out on a foul tap to Cheveront.

If the visitors had any hope of redeeming their loss when they came to the bat in the ninth they were mistaken First Coffman flied out to G. Parrott, then Stevens struck out, after which Bagley was thrown out at first. This closed the game the Willamettes having no use for their half of the inning.

THE PORTLAND'S WIN AGAIN

A Good-Sized and Well-Pleased Crowd at the Riverside Grounds.

The second baseball game at the new Riverside grounds yesterday afternoon between the Portlands and the Westerns of San Francisco resulted in another victory for the home nine by a score of 13 to 12 In spite of the low-hung and moisture-laden clouds, with occasional showers, about 800 people witnessed the game. The transportation accommodations were most satisfactory, both going and returning The passengers on the last train had a rather moist experience Those of the crowd who were unable to make the boat on the return trip took the train for Oswego which when arriving at that place backed down again to the city Besides the three coaches, there were eight flatcars arranged with board seats, and all of them crowded with people After the train had started to back down to the city, and as she passed the water tank between Oswego and Riverside, some mischievous webfoot boy in the first car, who evidently thought there hadn't been enough rain, reached up and pulled the valve of the tank wide open, letting a great stream of water down on the devoted heads of all the rest of the passengers, who got a thorough ducking before the train could be stopped

The game had been such a good one, and the crowd were so well satisfied that they took their ducking ladies and all, very good naturedly, and with no other mishap, the public were safely landed at Lincoln street by the train and at Alder street by the steamer City of Salem

The game was a lively one, after the first two or three innings, and the crowd had plenty of sport and the kind most of them wanted The ball was in the field all of the time, and gave plenty of opportunity for good ball playing on both sides The batteries were different from those of Saturday For the Portlands, Mullee and McCarthy did good work, the favorite pitcher who only arrived from California on the morning train, receiving a rousing reception as he stepped into the box For the Westerns Tilson and Collett made a good team Tilson is a slight, little fellow but held the big fellows down very creditably

THE GAME BY INNINGS

Game was called at 3 15, with the home team at the bat The first three innings were tame The light but chilling rain had a bad effect on both nines and it was not until the fourth that the men seemed to get warmed up At the end of the third the score stood Portlands 4 Western 0

FOURTH

For the Portlands Yager was first at the bat he fouled out Cannon, after two strikes being called on him, struck just in front of the home plate, and was fielded out by Collet to first Bentle after making several foul hits, struck out and the side retired

McMullen for the Westerns, caught the ball fair and square and sent a long hard liner out to Timmons in center field, who scooped it in Allen and Tilson both struck out, and the score still stood 4 to 0 in favor of the home nine

FIFTH

Mullee started out with a clean base hit, over second and with McCarthy and Calhoun behind him it looked like another run He however got caught napping at first by a quick pretty play from Tilson to Allen McCarthy after two strikes, hit a sharp one to Tilson who neatly played him out at first Calhoun made the same play and the nine retired, with their second goose egg

The Westerns made their first run in this inning Miner hit a short grounder to Cannon and was fielded out at first. Mahoney then took first on a fumble of his grounder by Bentle. McLaughlin hit to Cannon who threw to Calhoun to head off Mahoney "Cal" missed it and gave both men their base Collet then made a clean hit between third base and short, bringing Mahoney in and advancing McLaughlin to third Hanley popped a little one to Mebus and made the second out Murdock made a long, high base hit bringing in McLaughlin, and in making second ran into Calhoun who was laid up for a few moments In passing the ball to Mullee, McCarthy threw over his head, and Collet came in McMullen made a base hit to right center, and Murdock scored from second Allen then struck a short one to Mullee, who ran him out leaving McMullen on second, and the score standing 4 and 4

SIXTH

Mebus knocked a long easy fly, right into Mahoney's hands. McGuire hit between first and second which was well fielded by Allen to Tilson who covered first and "Mac" retired Allen also captured a pop fly from Timmons and, the side scored another whitewash

For the Westerns Tilson hit to Bentle and was fielded out at first Miner hit to Bentle who fumbled it Mahoney took his base on balls and Miner reached third, on a passed ball McLaughlin then drove a long high one out to Timmons who took it in, and sent it back to Mebus heading off Mahoney and making the prettiest double play of the game, shutting out Miner's tally

SEVENTH

Yager took his base, hit by the ball, and made second by Collets wild throw Cannon fouled out to Hanley Bentle took his base, hit by the pitcher, and Yager his third Mullee hit a sharp one to Hanley, who fumbled it letting Yager score and Bentle take his second and third he scoring while the ball was passed from Collet to Hanley McCarthy hit a long fly to McMullen who captured it, and sent it to third, catching Mullee

Collet went out on a fly to Calhoun and Hanley was fielded out at first by Calhoun Murdock hit to Cannon and made his first on a wild throw and stole his second McMullen made a pretty base hit to right center, which Timmons fielded in to McCarthy catching Murdock at the plate The play was the most brilliant of the game

EIGHTH

The Portlands started in again in this inning Calhoun hit clean between short and third Mebus followed with a high one to short left, which Hanley muffed McGuire hit to Murdock and forced Calhoun out at third Timmons went out on a fly to center field and Mebus took second Yager made his first, after three strikes and Mebus and McGuire scored on a wild throw by Collet to first. Yager took his second on a passed ball and in on Cannon's base hit passed second Cannon made his third on McLaughlin's wild throw to the plate Bentle hit to third and made his base on Allen's fumble and Cannon scored Bentle was thrown out while stealing second and the side was out with four runs to their credit

The Westerns started out to win this inning and it looked as if they were going to do it for a while Allen started the ball rolling with a long hard drive into left field for three bases and scored on a passed ball Tilson popped a short fly over Mullee's head which Cannon took on the dead run Miner made his first after three strikes on a passed ball Mahoney's pretty base hit over first, brought Miner in McLaughlin hit to third, and made his base while Cannon juggled the ball. Mahoney took second on Collet's clean hit and scored on Cannon's fumble of Hanley's grounder Mebus threw wild to third, Collet scored Murdock went out to Yager and McMullen's sky scraper was scooped in by Mebus Hanley was left at third and five runs made the score standing 10 to 9 in favor of the Portlands

NINTH

The last inning opened with Mullee at the bat He made a base hit and took second on a passed ball McCarthy hit to Tilson and died at first Mullee taking third and scoring on a passed ball Calhoun fanned out Mebus hit the sphere for a base and took second on a wild throw by Collet, scoring on McGuire's two-base hit McGuire stole third and in on Hanley's error Timmons took his base, being hit by the pitcher Yager hit to third and was fielded out at first, Timmons dying at third

The last half of the innings was very exciting Allen was again at the bat and pounded the ball for two bases and scored on Tilson's hit Miner went out on a fly to Cannon Mahoney hit to short and made his first on Bentle's fumble Tilson scoring on the same error McLaughlin popped a fly to short right which Calhoun muffed while Mahoney scored Collet hit to pitcher and was fielded out at first

Saturday's games resulted as follows At Riverside—Portlands, 5 Westerns of San Francisco, 3 At Clinton & McCoy's park—Willamettes 1 Seattle Browns 0

Mr G W McCoy one of the owners of the East Portland baseball park told a reporter at the close of yesterday's game that he and his partner Richard Clinton, have $500 which they are ready to wager that the Willamettes can defeat the Portlands both nines to have the same men in the same positions, as in their respective games with the Seattle Browns and Westerns Saturday If a game is arranged on this basis the batteries will be Turnbull and Jiggs Parrott for the Willamettes and McCarthy and McMullen for the Portlands Portlands what say you?

AUTOMATIC ENGINES

TACOMA W T, Feb 25, 1888.

Messrs Russell & Co Portland Oregon—Gentlemen We have been running the automatic engine bought of you for a week or more and so far we are much pleased with it. Our engineer says it is the best engine he ever run, and he has had extensive experience in building and running of engines What he notices especially is its uniformity of action under varying load. He tested it with his speed indicator and found there was no change in the number of revolutions when the dynamo was plugged in or cut out. * * *

FIRE AT MILWAUKIE.

The Foundry and Machine Shop of John Atkinson Totally Destroyed Yesterday Morning

The foundry and machine shop belonging to John Atkinson, at Milwaukie was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning about 1 o clock Mention was made in THE OREGONIAN yesterday morning of a great light illuminating the heavens in the direction of Milwaukie indicating that a big fire was raging at, or in the vicinity of that place Early yesterday morning rumors reached this city that the old Standard flouring mill which has stood for the past thirty years on the bank of the river was swept away This, it was subsequently learned, was incorrect. An OREGONIAN reporter yesterday visited the scene of the fire, and learned the following facts

About six years since the foundry and machine shop was started at Milwaukie by Atkinson & Lakin and conducted by that firm until a year ago when the former member of the firm purchased the latter's interest Since that time Mr Atkinson has been sole proprietor and conducted the business himself Saturday afternoon some casting was done at the shop It was completed by about 6 30 P M when Atkinson and the men left, and went home Before doing so every precaution was taken against fire, the roof was saturated with water and all the premises about the boiler furnace and blast were thoroughly wet down

Persons having occasion to pass the foundry about 10 o clock state they saw no sign of fire Others who passed at 11 and one man who went that way about midnight, report no indications of a blaze and smelled nothing burning Shortly before 1 o clock those living in the vicinity were aroused by a great light and it was then discovered that the foundry was on fire When first discovered the entire roof of the building was wrapped in flames Nothing whatever could be done so that building and contents proved a total loss Besides the machinery all the patterns were destroyed Origin of the fire is unknown, though it is thought it might have been the work of an incendiary The roof when first seen, was on fire in a number of places the flames not appearing to have sprung from one source Mr Atkinson when making the blast Saturday evening, used the smaller cupola and the liabilities of fire were much less than from the larger one However, what motive an incendiary could have in wantonly destroying the property is difficult to conjecture

Mr Atkinson estimates his loss at fully $5000 He lost everything in connection with the foundry He is insured in the Queen's Insurance Company for $2200 Atkinson had just received a sub contract from Trenckman & Wolf, of this city for considerable iron work which is to be done on the new Industrial Fair building Mr Atkinson is a hard working, industrious and capable man This loss is a heavy blow and his friends will deeply regret to learn that his property has been swept away It is hard[illegible] is probable that Mr Atkinson will rebuild

THE HOLLADAY PROPERTY SALE

It is Likely to be a Benefit to the City in Several Ways.

The late sale of a portion of the Holladay estate affords great satisfaction not only to the creditors who secured their claims but to the public at large, as it has made available for improvement the large tract in East Portland known as the Holladay addition and has brought outside capital here and men of wealth and energy who will hereafter be interested in and identified with the progress and prosperity of the city

The stock of the Oregon Real Estate Company covers not only the Holladay addition which comprises something over 1500 lots but also thirty two acres at the O & C car shops the Seaside house and grounds 700 acres (subject to Joe Holladay's mortgage) the triangular block opposite the O & C railroad office the house and lot adjoining the Baptist church on Fifth street the St Joe farm of 770 acres at St Joe in Yamhill county, also town lots at Beaverton Cornelius and McMinnville There is about $12,000 of the $345,000 of the claims which has not been assigned and is still held by Messrs Ladd and Wood who will be interested in the property to that amount and Mr, H Y, Thompson, who has acted as legal adviser for the purchasers is largely interested

The purchasers are energetic enterprising men of great wealth They will expend $50 000 in opening streets, erecting buildings and otherwise improving their property in East Portland before they will put it on the market

This will be much more beneficial to the community than if it had fallen into the hands of some one without the desire or available capital to improve it One of the Paradise Bros it is stated will come here to reside Montana is a good country to make money in but it is not a desirable place to live in all the time and the fact that these wealthy citizens have invested money here will set other capitalists of Montana looking this way for investments and for residences where they can enjoy more of the pleasures which money can secure and the superior advantages for educating their children and other advantages which a residence here affords.

The purchasers of the property have dealt with the Holladay creditors in the most liberal manner paying all the claims assigned in full with interest and without any talk of discount. In view of the facts the sale will doubtless be approved by the court.

REPUBLICAN CHANCES GOOD

Hon John F Swift Tells What He Thinks About the Election

The great Oregon campaign of 1888 ended Saturday night and the well known speakers who have been descanting upon the tariff and other issues for several weeks have nearly all started homeward or are preparing to Hon John F Swift and Col John P Irish the brilliant Californians who have been advocating protection and free trade respectively left for home on the same train yesterday afternoon Both were beset by their many friends before their departure Before leaving Mr Swift speaking with an OREGONIAN reporter said

Oregon is a wonderful state and my tour of the state has been to me a source of great pleasure and comfort It has the best climate for the production of vigorous and hardy manhood Oregon has not the excessive heat in summer nor the severe cold in winter which is had in Eastern states Still it is not so agreeable as California and will not fill up so quickly but it is a very beautiful state and will have a large population"

Judging from what you have seen and heard in your travels do you feel at liberty to express an opinion relative to the outcome of the election?

So far as I could learn the republicans are exceedingly confident Leading democrats with whom I have conversed practically concede the defeat of their candidate for congress and their only hopes lay in county victories in fact I found not one democrat who claimed the election of Mr Gearin I think that Mr Hermann will have 2500 majority It is my impression that the republicans will carry a number of democratic or close counties the vote of which will swell the majority of Mr Hermann to the figure I give"

It has been said that the farmers generally favor free trade"

"It is not so They are all protectionists The republicans will lose none of their protectionist farmers while they will have added to their ranks many wool men formerly democratic

How will the laboring men vote?

"I heard good accounts regarding the laboring men, and it is my impression that we will gain many of their votes and lose none

AN IMPROMPTU JUNKETING

A Reporter Aids in Concealing a Theft and Falls in for a Good Thing

There was a great rumpus in Everding & Farrell's store Saturday Mr Everding was turning the place upside down and exclaiming that he had been robbed and raising Cain generally A reporter who happened to be passing ventured timidly in to see what all the row was about He found it was all on account of a jar of junket or Devonshire clouted cream Now there are probably but few people in this region who have indulged in the luxury of junket or know what it is But Mr Everding had found out during a visit to R Scott's place at Milwaukie Mrs Scott is a Devonshire woman and knows all about this delicacy which is made of thick rich, fresh cream fixed up in some manner so as to concentrate and intensify the richness of the cream It is made in Devonshire for the royalty and aristocracy in London and when Mr Everding had fed on it once he imagined he was a member of the royal family or a duke at least and he has had a jar of the delicious compound made for him every week since When it arrived he always packed it off as if it were a jar of gold and never mentioned junket to any one His partner Mr Farrell at last concluded he would like to try the junket himself and so when the jar arrived on Saturday he stowed it away in the safe And this is how the trouble began After turning the store upside down Mr Everding sat down to study on the matter and he remembered that he had once hooked a string of ducks from John A Beck and he concluded that Mr Beck had hooked his junket So he started for Beck's store to investigate As soon as he was gone Mr Farrell pulled the jar out of the safe and begged the reporter to take it away before Dick came back Now this reporter wasn't a prince or a duke or anything of the kind but he had a mouth adapted to junket or anything else which was good and was never known to refuse anything and the way he put out with that jar was a caution to all junketers It only remains to be said that the stuff was good Talk about ambrosia it is slops compared to junket and if Everding ever expects to eat any more of it he had better keep a bright lookout for his jar when it arrives for junket is really too rich for his blood

With Railroad Communication to Coeur d'Alene, Portland Needs Extensive Smelting Works

Now that work has been begun on the railroad which is to connect the Coeur d Alene mines with this city, the subject of smelting works here has again been brought up The lack of this railroad and the very slim prospect there seemed to be at that time for securing one caused the scheme of constructing smelting works on a large scale here to be abandoned some time ago when it was first talked of, but now the project has been revived There should be extensive smelting works here for many reasons One of these is that it is the best place in the Northwest for such works as has been explained heretofore in these columns Another reason is that Portland capitalists are the most extensive owners in these mines and are now shipping 200 tons of concentrates per day to other places for smelting although these mines are only beginning to be developed It is more than likely that the owners of these mines will take steps toward the establishment of smelting works here as their interests are here and they can easily secure all the capital needed for such an enterprise

Mr A W Geist who is interested in smelting works at Pueblo Col which have been the means of building up that place from a village or 500 inhabitants to a town of 30 000 has been in the city during the past week, and has now gone to San Jose, Cal, to bring his family here to reside, and it is more than probable that he is figuring on a project for establishing smelting works here At all events Portland is to have direct communication in the near future, with the Coeur d Alene mines and if smelting works on a large scale are not established here it will be queer
